Committee Disagrees With President's Plan

'53 Budget Is Voted by Lawmakers

All Republicans Back Program, Only 23 Democrats Dissent in Balloting

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—Republican Legislative chiefs rallied their forces today for a "give-and-take" home-stretch drive toward adjournment about March 19, after pushing Gov. Dewey's billion-plus budget through both houses.

With many bitterly controversial measures still to be handled—including several Dewey program bills—the final phase of the 1953 session was expected to feature old-fashioned political horse-trading by both the Republicans and the outnumbered Democrats.

The governor's $1,072,500,000 spending program for fiscal 1953-54 rode through a prolonged, determined Democratic attack for about six hours yesterday. But when the oratory ended, all the Republicans and all but 23 Democratic lawmakers voted for it.

Final Legislative clearance of the budget bills makes most of them law. But Dewey must sign a few of them, including one to continue for another year collection of the personal income tax at 90 per cent of the full legal rate.

Other Developments

In other developments:

1. GOP leaders decided tentatively against making Dewey's program of compulsory automobile liability insurance a "party measure," which in theory would commit all party members to support it.

A highly placed source told a newsman "the opposition has been so powerful that the leaders are adverse to making it a party measure." Many Republican lawmakers and private insurance companies are fighting the plan.

2. The governor was reported opposed to the proposed Ostrander amendment to the constitution, which would strip the Legislature of its present power to regulate streams by building dams in the state forest preserve.

5,925 Are Sponsored

3. As the deadline for introducing bills passed yesterday, a total of 5,925 measures had been sponsored this year—178 short of the record total of 6,103 tossed in last year. Legislation still may be introduced, but only with the approval of the Rules Committee in either house.

4. Mayor Vincent R. Impelliteri's administration offered a new crop of bills designed to iron out some method to rid New York city of its recurring transit difficulties.

The main bills, apparently alternative proposals, would permit the metropolis to sell or lease its surface transportation lines in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Staten Island, and set up a three-member, unsalaried transit authority to operate all municipal transit facilities.

Would Give Control

Another bill, backed by the Public Service Commission, would give the city complete regulatory control over all city transit lines. Since 1949, the city has controlled the fares, but the PSC has retained supervisory jurisdiction over other aspects of the operations.

The city's surface lines in the four boroughs are expected to build up a 12-million-dollar deficit this year. Including these lines, the overall operation is slated to run into the red about 41 million dollars. This includes estimated losses on subway and elevated lines.

Bridges Is For Slash in Aid Abroad

Senator Will Request Dulles for Estimate of Need to Assist Anti-Reds

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R.-N.H.) called today for reassessment and reduction of foreign aid spending and said he will ask Secretary of State Dulles for a preliminary estimate of how much may be needed to help anti-Communist nations.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, which Bridges heads, called Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen to discuss the overseas aid program at a closed session.

Bridges said Dulles and Stassen would be asked if the aid program can be operated for another year on about 10 billion dollars already appropriated by Congress. Former President Truman had asked for a little more than 7½ billion dollars in new funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

McCarran Is Confident

Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.), a member of Bridges' committee, said he is confident the 10 unspent billions are enough, and he added:

"Foreign aid spending ought to be cut to the bone. Congress not only should cut the funds, but see to it that holdover money is spent intelligently."

Bridges said he hopes Dulles and Stassen plan some sizable reduction in foreign spending.

Dulles and Stassen recently made a flying trip to Europe. There are indications they will hold up fund requests until after a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) meeting set for April.

Last year the Democratic administration asked $7,900,600,000 for all foreign aid programs. Congress finally voted six billion dollars of new funds. But more than that is on hand, unspent from previous years.

Ship Floats Free

Castleton-on-Hudson, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Norwegian grain ship Tento floated free today from the Hudson river shoal where she became lodged 13 days ago during the tugboat strike on the eastern seaboard. The 9,000-ton vessel worked out of the sand and mud at high tide and headed downriver toward deep water in the Kingston-Poughkeepsie area, where divers planned to inspect the hull. Part of the Tento's 8,500 tons of grain had been loaded onto a barge to lighten the load.

Professor Dies of Wound

Rome, Feb. 18 (AP)—Prof. Renzo Modugno, shot three times by a 16-year-old mathematics student to whom he gave a failing grade, died today without regaining consciousness. Police quoted the boy as saying: "He persecuted me. I took revenge." The boy is being held for court action.

Statement Used To Support Drive

Appropriations Committee Refuses Bid, Says Need Lacking—Reuther Objects

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—A House Democrat pointed to a passage from President Eisenhower's State-of-the-Union Message today to support a drive for more money for hard-hit school districts.

The House Appropriations Committee turned down a request by former President Truman for 24 million dollars to help school districts whose pupil population has been swollen by an influx of defense workers or military personnel.

The GOP-controlled committee said there appeared to be no need for the additional money, since 40 millions already have been appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Rep. Fogarty (D.-R.I.), a committee member, told newsmen he would ask the House to restore the 24 million when the bill reaches the amendment stage, probably late today. He said he expected most Democrats and many Republicans to support his move.

Says President Supports

Fogarty said Eisenhower is supporting the school-aid program and cited this passage from the President's address to Congress on Feb. 2:

"One phase of the school problem demands special attention. The school population of many districts has been greatly increased by swift growth of defense activities. . . . Legislation aiding construction of schools in these districts expires on June 30.

House Unit Says Tax Cut Comes First

Slash in Levies Viewed as Taking Precedence Over Spending Drops —Veto May Come

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee disagreed vigorously and openly today with President Eisenhower's avowed policy of putting spending cuts ahead of any reductions in taxes.

A tax cut must "precede, not follow" budget reductions, the committee said in a report to the House only one day after Eisenhower strongly renewed his stand for the reverse order.

Further, the committee asserted, a delay in tax trimming until the level of spending is determined—the approach stressed by Eisenhower—"might well have serious economic consequences."

This language brought squarely into the open a simmering clash among Republicans over tax policy and raised the threat of a possible presidential veto. It was approved by the committee in a closed meeting late yesterday—without a rollcall vote.

The committee planned to make it public today. Some newsmen saw a copy in advance of that action.

Bill Goes to House

The report formally sends to the House, with a recommendation for passage, a bill by Committee Chairman Reed (R.-N.Y.) to cut individual income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1—a bill approved 21 to 4 by the committee on Monday.

At his first White House news conference, Eisenhower said yesterday that the government cannot afford to reduce taxes or federal income until it has in sight a spending program which balances income and outgo. Otherwise, he added, higher taxes may result in the future.

Eisenhower would not say whether he would veto any tax bill which may reach his desk. But he did say at one point he would not consent as things now stand to any reduction in government revenue without a substitute which would bring in as much.

Would Seek. Substitute

The President indicated if the excess profits tax on business is to expire June 30—as provided in present law—his administration would seek a substitute for that revenue, estimated at about 2½ billion dollars annually.

Ways and Means Committee sources said today they have heard the treasury is considering asking for a temporary increase of 2 percentage points in the regular income surtax on corporations, as a substitute for the excess profits levy. That would boost the regular top rate for corporations from 52 to 54 per cent.

Reed, however, said "There will be no increases in taxes of any kind this year."

Weight Behind Statement

And the report threw the official weight of his committee behind a statement that the excess profits tax should be allowed to expire as scheduled. The report denounced the tax—which runs up to 82 per cent on profits consid-

New Post Office Will Open April 1 Near Dutch Church

Boxholders Are Asked to Reserve Space to Prevent Delays in Delivery

The uptown station of the Kingston post office will move April 1 from its present location on Clinton avenue at the head of Main street to its new location in the building now being erected on the premises of the First Dutch Reformed Church on Main street between Fair and Wall streets.

Boxholders are being solicited now to reserve boxes so that there will be no delay in the delivery of mail when the new station opens. The new station will be equipped with all new boxes and equipment.

When the new uptown station opens, due to the new "bank type" windows it will be impossible to leave the lobby of the post office open when no employe is on duty and the hours during which the office will be open have been announced by E. H. Kittle, superintendent of the station. On weekdays the lobby of the station will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. On Sundays and holidays the lobby will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 10:30 a. m. Windows will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. week-days except Saturday when the hours will be from 8 a. m. to 12 noon. Windows will not be open on Sundays or holidays, according to the announcement.

Has New Jet Fighter

Trenton, Ont., Feb. 18 (AP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force said today it has a new jet fighter armed with 60 radar-aimed rockets—more than twice as many as any U. S. plane is known to carry. Any one of the rockets, the RCAF said, can bring down an enemy bomber, and it is expected that future models will have as many as 100. The new U. S. Lockheed F-94C Starfire carries only 24 rockets.

Arson Is Blamed, Official Reports

Sanitarium Doctor, Family Driven From Home at Middletown

Middletown, Feb. 18 (AP)—Police Lieut. Russell Adgate today described as possible arson a fire which last night drove a Middletown doctor, his wife and their three children from their home.

The doctor is Raphael Spano, chief surgeon at Middletown Sanitarium, who yesterday filed a complaint with Orange County District Attorney Abraham Isseks against Horton Hospital, also in Middletown. Isseks said he would investigate but did not officially disclose the nature of the complaint.

Spano also suffered a loss in a first last Sept. 24 which destroyed a three-story building he had purchased for $75,000 reportedly to use as a hospital.

Last night's fire broke out in the basement of the two-story frame Spano residence. Six fire trucks fought the blaze for two hours.

Cellar Inspected

Adgate and Police Chief Harry Holmbraker inspected the cellar and Adgate said kerosene had been spilled on the floor and then ignited. He added that it looked like the work of an arsonist.

Spano's 17-year-old son, Rief, told police he was in his room when he heard a noise at the garage door leading into the basement. Rief was quoted as saying he shut off his light, looked out the window, and then smelled smoke. Police said the youth aroused the other members of the family.

Telephone Out of Order

Police said that although electric power in the house was working, the telephone was not functioning and that Rief had to go to a nieghbor's to call firemen.

Officers said they were investigating the possibility that the phone lines had been cut.

Damage in last night's fire was confined largely to the basement, but smoke and water damage was reported in other parts of the house.

Police said the cause of the fire last September had not been determined. The building destroyed was unoccupied and had been used at one time as a school.

Damages Are Asked

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (AP)—A $100,000 damage suit has been filed against crying singer Johnnie Ray. Herman Prujansky said he became Ray's publicity man at $200 a week last July 15 but was fired without cause last Dec. 3. He said he had an oral agreement that provided for him to continue his services so long as Ray remained in show business.

Allen Is Accepted

Career Diplomat to Become Ambassador to India in Place of Bowles

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—India has accepted career diplomat George V. Allen as the new American ambassador to New Delhi, informed sources said today.

Allen, now envoy to Communist Yugoslavia, will succeed Chester Bowles, former Democratic governor of Connecticut and one-time federal price control chief.

The shift is part of a reshuffle by the Eisenhower administration expected to affect ambassadors in all parts of the globe.

George V. Kennan, until recently ambassador to Moscow, has figured in speculation as a likely successor to Allen in Belgrade. He also has reportedly been considered as envoy to Switzerland.

Hearing Is Called On Electric Rate Asked in Ellenville

The Public Service Commission has suspended a proposed new industrial rate filed by Ellenville Electric Company and will hold a public hearing on the matter at 10:30 a. m., Thursday, March 5 at its Albany office, 55 Elk street, before Examiner George N. Mack.

The company, which buys all its electric energy from Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, furnishes electric service within the village of Ellenville and in a portion of the town of Wawarsing, Ulster county. It had proposed to institute a new rate applicable to large consumers of electricity and who guarantee a 500 kilowatt minimum demand. Only one present customer, Channel Master Corporation, which is now expanding its manufacturing facilities at Ellenville, would be affected by the new rate.

Terms of Proposal

Under its proposal, the utility would have derived an estimated annual revenue of $95,760, as compared with an energy cost of $73,200, from a 500,000 kilowatt hour monthly consumption based on a monthly demand of 1,200 kilowatts. Should the monthly demand reach 2,000 kilowatts and the monthly consumption total 800,000 kilowatt hours, the annual revenue derived would total $156,000 against a power purchase cost of $119,400. In addition, the utility proposed that the customer should make an advance payment of $36,000 toward construction of power lines required to connect its new plant with the nearest feature, crediting the customer with $500 monthly against billings for a six year period.

Channel Master Corp. filed an objection to the proposed new rate, claiming that were it to become effective, its unit electric costs would be increased rather than decreased despite much higher consumption.

Bill Would Provide Tax Powers Over Certain Franchises

Railroad, Utility Properties Would Be Affected —Moore Describes Intention

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—Localities would be given the power to fix special franchise valuations on railroad and untility properties for real estate tax purposes, under terms of a bill sponsored by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The state now sets the franchise valuations each year. Local assessment boards then enter the state's valuations on their rolls.

Under the new plan, special franchise property would be assessed annually after 1954 by local assessors in accordance with a fixed formula worked out by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The measure was introduced yesterday by Sen. S. Wentworth Orton of Greenport and Assemblyman Edmund R. Lupton of Riverhead, Republican chairmen of the Legislature's taxation committees.

Designed to Stabilize

Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, chairman of the board, said the measure was designed to stabilize the special franchise valuations, simplify the method and substantially reduce the cost of establishing them.

Representatives of the 421 companies holding special franchise property have been invited to attend a public hearing on the proposal tomorrow in the Assembly chamber. Spokesmen for the State Conference of Mayors, the State Association of Towns and New York city also will be heard.

Special franchise valuation is assessed against both the physical property of a railroad or utility and the right or privilege to use that public property.

Total More Than Billion

These valuations in localities now total $1,406,343,000. The annual local real estate tax revenue is estimated at about 50 million.

Under the proposed plan, the State Equalization and Assessment Board would set a tentative stabilized valuation for each locality by June 1. This valuation base would serve as a starting point for all special franchise valuations in future years.

The tentative base set by the state board would be subject to hearing and review by the board before a permanent figure was set. It would be subject to court review, if a locality and a railroad or utility desired.

Bishop Gregg Dies

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Bishop John A. Gregg, 75, one of the foremost Negroes in America, died here Tuesday night after a month's illness. He was senior bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in the U. S., presiding bishop of the 11th Episcopal District of Florida and as a special envoy of President Roosevelt traveled some 10,000 miles to various military installations during World War 2. Gregg was a member of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ; president of the Bishop Council of the AME Church; and a former president and chancellor of Edward Waters College here. He was a lecturer and author of a number of religious books.

Would Become Surrogate

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, 54, hopes to run for surrogate of Westchester county in 1954, instead of continuing in state office, it was learned today. McGovern, a member of Gov. Dewey's state administration since 1950, is considered the prime candidate to fill the $28,000-a-year surrogate's post in his home county. His salary as comptroller is $20,000. A vacancy in the Westchester post will develop next year when Surrogate Charles H. Griffith of New Rochelle reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Sabre Jets Destroy Seven Reds While Screening 2 Air Blows

Seoul, Feb. 18 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets today destroyed seven Red MIG-15s while screening two smashing air blows by 379 fighter-bombers against a Communist tank and infantry training center near the Red capital, Pyongyang, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported.

The Pyongyang area was blasted by nearly 400 air force and marine planes that roared over in morning and afternoon strikes.

Today's seven boosted to 35 the number of MIGs reported destroyed or damaged in five days of fierce aerial fights. Of these, 14 were destroyed, five probably destroyed and 16 damaged.

Reports on the air battle said Sabre pilots shot down five MIGs reported destroyed or damaged in five days of fierce aerial fights. Of these, 14 were destroyed, five probably destroyed and 16 damaged.

Reports on the air battle said Sabre pilots shot down five MIGs deep over northwest Korea and destroyed two more by out-maneuvering them in swirling dogfights that produced the 26th ace of the Korean war.

The new ace is Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez, of Miami, Fla. He was credited with two killed today. This raised his confirmed total to six MIGs destroyed and one probably destroyed.

Two forces totaling 379 allied fighter-bombers smashed the training school center at Kangso, directly west of Pyongyang.

Fifth Air Force and marine planes rained more than 750,000 pounds of explosives on the target area.

Pilots said their bombs touched off many secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition and fuel dumps. Numerous fires hurled clouds of smoke into the sky. An estimated 139 buildings were destroyed.

The hammering aerial blows near Pyongyang came after B-26 Invader bombers blasted Red supply areas and highways in North Korea last night. Pilots reported 95 Communist trucks destroyed.

There was little action along the icy cold ground front. U. S. Eighth Army reported only brief skirmishes as temperatures plunged below zero all across the peninsula.

A Chinese Communist platoon —25 to 40 men—forced allied soldiers to withdraw from a listening post southwest of Kelly Hill on the western front. Allied big guns tore into the Reds, but they held the position.

Kirn Denies Farm's Sale To IBM for Factory Site

Port Ewen Man Reports 'Nothing Definite' on Negotiation for Land

A report that the Kirndale Dairy 80-acre farm property on Salem street, Port Ewen, near the Port Ewen railroad station had been sold to IBM, for a typewriter factory was denied this morning by John Kirn, owner.

Kirn said that there had been some discussion over purchase of the property some time ago but there was "nothing definite." He indicated that he retained some hopes of further negotiations.

The large dairy barns on the farm are being torn down since Kirn went out of the milk production business some time ago. Kirndale Dairy still maintains a dairy plant and distributes milk but no dairy cattle are kept on the farm.

A portion of the property borders the West Shore Railroad line.

At present Kirn is developing a portion of the property across the road from his residence for building purposes. A boulevard will be built, along which building lots will be laid out. Kirn said that he anticipated selling about 20 lots, each 70 by 140 feet in size containing about a quarter of an acre. The development is now being surveyed and laid out and lots will be offered for sale in the project.

Firemen Favor Legalized Bingo

County Association Backs Legislative Action to Aid Operations

The Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting here last night, moved in favor of state legislative action that would legalize bingo.

The firemen continued discussion of a proposed county-sponsored radio communication system for volunteer companies, and it was decided that Arthur Chipp, of Kerhonkson, county civil defense co-ordinator, will present a definite plan for consideration of the Board of Supervisors.

Support of the proposal to legalize bingo came from the association's inter-county Elmendorf committee. Companies of the association were urged to communicate with state legislators asking them to support a bill favoring legalized bingo.

Connecticut Gets Raffles Petition

Minister Says Threat Made Against Him 4 Years Ago in Fairfield

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 18 (AP)—The "old fight" of whether Connecticut should allow raffles and bazaars for certain charitable organizations has come again before the General Assembly.

Before the Joint Judiciary Committee yesterday, opponents launched their new attack on proposed legislation which would legalize raffles and bazaars where merchandise may be awarded "by means of chance."

The Rev. Howard W. Orr, a Congregational minister, testified he was threatened four years ago because he directed a campaign against gambling in Fairfield county.

He told the committee he was warned:

"Little boy, if you don't lay off, we'll lay you out."

The Rev. Mr. Orr was among a large group of men and women who appeared before the committee. Their arguments were generally the same as last time.

Volunteer Firemen Cited

Those in favor of such legislation argued that if bazaars and raffles are gambling, it is "minor gambling." They afford, they said, the only sure means of raising funds to such groups as volunteer firemen who are not supported by governmental funds.

Those against it contended that big or small, gambling is gambling, and it is wrong; that there are other ways in which to raise money.

Said the Rev. Mr. Orr:

"Gambling corrupts everything

Will Quit Driving

Cleveland, Feb. 18 (AP)—Edson E. Sampson at the age of 90 and at the suggestion of a judge, today reluctantly agreed to give up driving. Municipal Judge David J. Miller suspended sentence after Sampson pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge. Sampson hit a parked car Feb. 5 for his first accident in 40 years of driving. Police said his knowledge of traffic laws was excellent, but his judge of distance was poor and his reactions slow.

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Federal income tax personal exemptions would be increased from $600 to $1,000 under a bill introduced in Congress today by Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla.). The increase would apply to exemptions for the taxpayer, husband or wife and dependents. It also would include the additional exemption for old age or blindnes.

Complaints Made

Greenberg Says Brutality Is Charged Against New York Police

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Assistant U. S. Attorney Daniel H. Greenberg says 15 persons have complained of what they called brutality by New York city police since a federal grand jury started a probe into one such case.

Greenberg said yesterday the complainants were referred to the FBI, which normally handles such cases involving local law enforcement officials under federal civil rights procedure.

The grand jury started its investigation Monday amid reports there was a secret agreement between Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan and U. S. Justice Department officials providing for New York police and prosecutors to investigate complaints of brutality. It was said that the New York officials would then report their findings to Washington.

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—Localities would be given the power to fix special franchise valuations on railroad and untility properties for real estate tax purposes, under terms of a bill sponsored by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The state now sets the franchise valuations each year. Local assessment boards then enter the state's valuations on their rolls.

Under the new plan, special franchise property would be assessed annually after 1954 by local assessors in accordance with a fixed formula worked out by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The measure was introduced yesterday by Sen. S. Wentworth Orton of Greenport and Assemblyman Edmund R. Lupton of Riverhead, Republican chairmen of the Legislature's taxation committees.

Designed to Stabilize

Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, chairman of the board, said the measure was designed to stabilize the special franchise valuations, simplify the method and substantially reduce the cost of establishing them.

Representatives of the 421 companies holding special franchise property have been invited to attend a public hearing on the proposal tomorrow in the Assembly chamber. Spokesmen for the State Conference of Mayors, the State Association of Towns and New York city also will be heard.

Special franchise valuation is assessed against both the physical property of a railroad or utility and the right or privilege to use that public property.

Total More Than Billion

These valuations in localities now total $1,406,343,000. The annual local real estate tax revenue is estimated at about 50 million.

Under the proposed plan, the State Equalization and Assessment Board would set a tentative stabilized valuation for each locality by June 1. This valuation base would serve as a starting point for all special franchise valuations in future years.

The tentative base set by the state board would be subject to hearing and review by the board before a permanent figure was set. It would be subject to court review, if a locality and a railroad or utility desired.

Bishop Gregg Dies

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Bishop John A. Gregg, 75, one of the foremost Negroes in America, died here Tuesday night after a month's illness. He was senior bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in the U. S., presiding bishop of the 11th Episcopal District of Florida and as a special envoy of President Roosevelt traveled some 10,000 miles to various military installations during World War 2. Gregg was a member of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ; president of the Bishop Council of the AME Church; and a former president and chancellor of Edward Waters College here. He was a lecturer and author of a number of religious books.

Would Become Surrogate

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, 54, hopes to run for surrogate of Westchester county in 1954, instead of continuing in state office, it was learned today. McGovern, a member of Gov. Dewey's state administration since 1950, is considered the prime candidate to fill the $28,000-a-year surrogate's post in his home county. His salary as comptroller is $20,000. A vacancy in the Westchester post will develop next year when Surrogate Charles H. Griffith of New Rochelle reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70.

'53 Budget Is Voted by Lawmakers

All Republicans Back Program, Only 23 Democrats Dissent in Balloting

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—Republican Legislative chiefs rallied their forces today for a "give-and-take" home-stretch drive toward adjournment about March 19, after pushing Gov. Dewey's billion-plus budget through both houses.

With many bitterly controversial measures still to be handled—including several Dewey program bills—the final phase of the 1953 session was expected to feature old-fashioned political horse-trading by both the Republicans and the outnumbered Democrats.

The governor's $1,072,500,000 spending program for fiscal 1953-54 rode through a prolonged, determined Democratic attack for about six hours yesterday. But when the oratory ended, all the Republicans and all but 23 Democratic lawmakers voted for it.

Final Legislative clearance of the budget bills makes most of them law. But Dewey must sign a few of them, including one to continue for another year collection of the personal income tax at 90 per cent of the full legal rate.

Other Developments

In other developments:

1. GOP leaders decided tentatively against making Dewey's program of compulsory automobile liability insurance a "party measure," which in theory would commit all party members to support it.

A highly placed source told a newsman "the opposition has been so powerful that the leaders are adverse to making it a party measure." Many Republican lawmakers and private insurance companies are fighting the plan.

2. The governor was reported opposed to the proposed Ostrander amendment to the constitution, which would strip the Legislature of its present power to regulate streams by building dams in the state forest preserve.

5,925 Are Sponsored

3. As the deadline for introducing bills passed yesterday, a total of 5,925 measures had been sponsored this year—178 short of the record total of 6,103 tossed in last year. Legislation still may be introduced, but only with the approval of the Rules Committee in either house.

4. Mayor Vincent R. Impelliteri's administration offered a new crop of bills designed to iron out some method to rid New York city of its recurring transit difficulties.

The main bills, apparently alternative proposals, would permit the metropolis to sell or lease its surface transportation lines in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Staten Island, and set up a three-member, unsalaried transit authority to operate all municipal transit facilities.

Would Give Control

Another bill, backed by the Public Service Commission, would give the city complete regulatory control over all city transit lines. Since 1949, the city has controlled the fares, but the PSC has retained supervisory jurisdiction over other aspects of the operations.

The city's surface lines in the four boroughs are expected to build up a 12-million-dollar deficit this year. Including these lines, the overall operation is slated to run into the red about 41 million dollars. This includes estimated losses on subway and elevated lines.

Bridges Is For Slash in Aid Abroad

Senator Will Request Dulles for Estimate of Need to Assist Anti-Reds

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R.-N.H.) called today for reassessment and reduction of foreign aid spending and said he will ask Secretary of State Dulles for a preliminary estimate of how much may be needed to help anti-Communist nations.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, which Bridges heads, called Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen to discuss the overseas aid program at a closed session.

Bridges said Dulles and Stassen would be asked if the aid program can be operated for another year on about 19 billion dollars already appropriated by Congress. Former President Truman had asked for a little more than 7½ billion dollars in new funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

McCarran Is Confident

Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.), a member of Bridges' committee, said he is confident the 10 unspent billions are enough, and he added:

"Foreign aid spending ought to be cut to the bone. Congress not only should cut the funds, but see to it that holdover money is spent intelligently."

Bridges said he hopes Dulles and Stassen plan some sizable reduction in foreign spending.

Dulles and Stassen recently made a flying trip to Europe. There are indications they will hold up fund requests until after a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) meeting set for April.

Last year the Democratic administration asked $7,900,000,000 for all foreign aid programs. Congress finally voted six billion dollars of new funds. But more than that is on hand, unspent from previous years.

Ship Floats Free

Castleton-on-Hudson, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Norwegian grain ship Tento floated free today from the Hudson river shoal where she became lodged 13 days ago during the tugboat strike on the eastern seaboard. The 9,000-ton vessel worked out of the sand and mud at high tide and headed downriver toward deep water in the Kingston-Poughkeepsie area, where divers planned to inspect the hull. Part of the Tento's 8,500 tons of grain had been loaded onto a barge to lighten the load.

Professor Dies of Wound

Rome, Feb. 18 (AP)—Prof. Renzo Modugno, shot three times by a 16-year-old mathematics student to whom he gave a failing grade, died today without regaining consciousness. Police quoted the boy as saying: "He persecuted me. I took revenge." The boy is being held for court action.

Sabre Jets Destroy Seven Reds While Screening 2 Air Blows

Seoul, Feb. 18 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets today destroyed seven Red MIG-15s while screening two smashing air blows by 379 fighter-bombers against a Communist tank and infantry training center near the Red capital, Pyongyang, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported.

The Pyongyang area was blasted by nearly 400 air force and marine planes that roared over in morning and afternoon strikes.

Today's seven boosted to 35 the number of MIGs reported destroyed or damaged in five days of fierce aerial fights. Of these, 14 were destroyed, five probably destroyed and 16 damaged.

Reports on the air battle said Sabre pilots shot down five MIGs reported destroyed or damaged in five days of fierce aerial fights. Of these, 14 were destroyed, five probably destroyed and 16 damaged.

Reports on the air battle said Sabre pilots shot down five MIGs deep over northwest Korea and destroyed two more by out-maneuvering them in swirling dogfights that produced the 26th ace of the Korean war.

The new ace is Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez, of Miami, Fla. He was credited with two killed today. This raised his confirmed total to six MIGs destroyed and one probably destroyed.

Two forces totaling 379 allied fighter-bombers smashed the training school center at Kangso, directly west of Pyongyang.

Fifth Air Force and marine planes rained more than 750,000 pounds of explosives on the target area.

Pilots said their bombs touched off many secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition and fuel dumps. Numerous fires hurled clouds of smoke into the sky. An estimated 139 buildings were destroyed.

The hammering aerial blows near Pyongyang came after B-26 Invader bombers blasted Red supply areas and highways in North Korea last night. Pilots reported 95 Communist trucks destroyed.

There was little action along the icy cold ground front. U. S. Eighth Army reported only brief skirmishes as temperatures plunged below zero all across the peninsula.

A Chinese Communist platoon—25 to 40 men—forced allied soldiers to withdraw from a listening post southwest of Kelly Hill on the western front. Allied big guns tore into the Reds, but they held the position.

Three allied patrols killed or wounded an estimated 30 Reds in early morning clashes in the Old Baldy area, also on the western front.

Statement Used To Support Drive

Appropriations Committee Refuses Bid, Says Need Lacking—Reuther Objects

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—A House Democrat pointed to a passage from President Eisenhower's State-of-the-Union Message today to support a drive for more money for hard-hit school districts.

The House Appropriations Committee turned down a request by former President Truman for 24 million dollars to help school districts whose pupil population has been swollen by an influx of defense workers or military personnel.

The GOP-controlled committee said there appeared to be no need for the additional money, since 40 millions already have been appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Rep. Fogarty (D.-R.I.), a committee member, told newsmen he would ask the House to restore the 24 million when the bill reaches the amendment stage, probably late today. He said he expected most Democrats and many Republicans to support his move.

Says President Supports

Fogarty said Eisenhower is supporting the school-aid program and cited this passage from the President's address to Congress on Feb. 2:

"One phase of the school problem demands special attention. The school population of many districts has been greatly increased by swift growth of defense activities. . . . Legislation aiding construction of schools in these districts expires on June 30.

Kirn Denies Farm's Sale To IBM for Factory Site

Port Ewen Man Reports 'Nothing Definite' on Negotiation for Land

A report that the Kirndale Dairy 80-acre farm property on Salem street, Port Ewen, near the Port Ewen railroad station had been sold to IBM, for a typewriter factory was denied this morning by John Kirn, owner.

Kirn said that there had been some discussion over purchase of the property some time ago but there was "nothing definite." He indicated that he retained some hopes of further negotiations.

The large dairy barns on the farm are being torn down since Kirn went out of the milk production business some time ago. Kirndale Dairy still maintains a dairy plant and distributes milk but no dairy cattle are kept on the farm.

A portion of the property borders the West Shore Railroad line.

At present Kirn is developing a portion of the property across the road from his residence for building purposes. A boulevard will be built, along which building lots will be laid out. Kirn said that he anticipated selling about 20 lots, each 70 by 140 feet in size containing about a quarter of an acre. The development is now being surveyed and laid out and lots will be offered for sale in the project.

Will Quit Driving

Cleveland, Feb. 18 (AP)—Edson E. Sampson at the age of 90 and at the suggestion of a judge, today reluctantly agreed to give up driving. Municipal Judge David J. Miller suspended sentence after Sampson pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge. Sampson hit a parked car Feb. 5 for his first accident in 40 years of driving. Police said his knowledge of traffic laws was excellent, but his judge of distance was poor and his reactions slow.

Would Increase Exemptions

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Federal income tax personal exemptions would be increased from $600 to $1,000 under a bill introduced in Congress today by Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla.). The increase would apply to exemptions for the taxpayer, husband or wife and dependents. It also would include the additional exemption for old age or blindness.

Firemen Favor Legalized Bingo

County Association Backs Legislative Action to Aid Operations

The Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting here last night, moved in favor of state legislative action that would legalize bingo.

The firemen continued discussion of a proposed county-sponsored radio communication system for volunteer companies, and it was decided that Arthur Chipp, of Kerhonkson, county civil defense co-ordinator, will present a definite plan for consideration of the Board of Supervisors.

Support of the proposal to legalize bingo came from the association's inter-county Elmendorf committee. Companies of the association were urged to communicate with state legislators asking them to support a bill favoring legalized bingo.

Connecticut Gets Raffles Petition

Minister Says Threat Made Against Him 4 Years Ago in Fairfield

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 18 (AP)—The "old fight" of whether Connecticut should allow raffles and bazaars for certain charitable organizations has come again before the General Assembly.

Before the Joint Judiciary Committee yesterday, opponents launched their new attack on proposed legislation which would legalize raffles and bazaars where merchandise may be awarded "by means of chance."

The Rev. Howard W. Orr, a Congregational minister, testified he was threatened four years ago because he directed a campaign against gambling in Fairfield county.

He told the committee he was warned:

"Little boy, if you don't lay off, we'll lay you out."

The Rev. Mr. Orr was among a large group of men and women who appeared before the committee. Their arguments were generally the same as last time.

Volunteer Firemen Cited

Those in favor of such legislation argued that if bazaars and raffles are gambling, it is "minor gambling." They afford, they said, the only sure means of raising funds to such groups as volunteer firemen who are not supported by governmental funds.

Those against it contended that big or small, gambling is gambling, and it is wrong; that there are other ways in which to raise money.

Said the Rev. Mr. Orr:

"Gambling corrupts everything

House Unit Says Tax Cut Comes First

Slash in Levies Viewed as Taking Precedence Over Spending Drops —Veto May Come

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee disagreed vigorously and openly today with President Eisenhower's avowed policy of putting spending cuts ahead of any reductions in taxes.

A tax cut must "precede, not follow" budget reductions, the committee said in a report to the House only one day after Eisenhower strongly renewed his stand for the reverse order.

Further, the committee asserted, a delay in tax trimming until the level of spending is determined—the approach stressed by Eisenhower—"might well have serious economic consequences."

This language brought squarely into the open a simmering clash among Republicans over tax policy and raised the threat of a possible presidential veto. It was approved by the committee in a closed meeting late yesterday—without a rollcall vote.

The committee planned to make it public today. Some newsmen saw a copy in advance of that action.

Bill Goes to House

The report formally sends to the House, with a recommendation for passage, a bill by Committee Chairman Reed (R.-N.Y.) to cut individual income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1—a bill approved 21 to 4 by the committee on Monday.

At his first White House news conference, Eisenhower said yesterday that the government cannot afford to reduce taxes or federal income until it has in sight a spending program which balances income and outgo. Otherwise, he added, higher taxes may result in the future.

Eisenhower would not say whether he would veto any tax bill which may reach his desk. But he did say at one point he would not consent as things now stand to any reduction in government revenue without a substitute which would bring in as much.

Would Seek Substitute

The President indicated if the excess profits tax on business is to expire June 30—as provided in present law—his administration would seek a substitute for that revenue, estimated at about 2½ billion dollars annually.

Ways and Means Committee sources said today they have heard the treasury is considering asking for a temporary increase of 2 percentage points in the regular income surtax on corporations, as a substitute for the excess profits levy. That would boost the regular top rate for corporations from 52 to 54 per cent.

Reed, however, said "There will be no increases in taxes of any kind this year."

Weight Behind Statement

And the report threw the official weight of his committee behind a statement that the excess profits tax should be allowed to expire as scheduled. The report denounced the tax—which runs up to 82 per cent on profits consid-

Complaints Made

Greenberg Says Brutality Is Charged Against New York Police

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Assistant U. S. Attorney Daniel H. Greenberg says 15 persons have complained of what they called brutality by New York city police since a federal grand jury started a probe into one such case.

Greenberg said yesterday the complainants were referred to the FBI, which normally handles such cases involving local law enforcement officials under federal civil rights procedure.

The grand jury started its investigation Monday amid reports there was a secret agreement between Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan and U. S. Justice Department officials providing for New York police and prosecutors to investigate complaints of brutality. It was said that the New York officials would then report their findings to Washington.

May Enter Designs In Safety Poster National Contest

Students planning to enter the American Automobile Association's national traffic safety poster contest must submit their poster designs not later than March 16, Edward J. Rieger, safety director of the Automobile Club of New York, announced today.

Cash prizes totaling $2,275, including a grand award of $350 intended as a one-year art-school scholarship, will be presented for 61 winning designs.

The contest is open to students in the elementary and high school grades in public, parochial and private schools throughout the country. Last year, 4,642 designs were received from students in the 48 states, Canada, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Rieger pointed out that students attending school in New York state are required to submit designs based on either of two safety themes, Look Both Ways Before Crossing and Play Away from Traffic.

The 10 first-prize designs in the high school competition will be reproduced and distributed free by the AAA to more than 150,000 schools throughout the country during the school year beginning next September.

A special award of $75 will be made this year to the student submittting the best poster illustrating the School's Open safety theme. The winning poster will be displayed widely in the AAA's annual School's Open traffic-safety campaign in the fall.

Application blanks are available through school principals and art instructors, Rieger said. Information and rules of the contest may be obtained from the Automobile Club of New York, 28 East 78th street, New York 21, N. Y.

The contest has the approval of the contest committee of the National Association of Secondary School Principals of the National Educational Association and public and parochial school officials in New York.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator doesn't suppose that many of us will ever "look ahead" with much accuracy. But, although perhaps this discussion is somewhat previous, there is one major consideration we should hold in the back of our minds.

As you run back through our industrial history you find that wars have been great innovators and motivators of industrial progress.

We have lost sight of this fact in recent years because the aftermath of World War 2 has been one of continued world strain, area conflicts, and political disturbances.

There has been little "freedom" of action or minds in the years since Germany and Japan capitulated. The "government" has been in the forefront of world-wide disorders, with the result that the state rather than its individuals has been the prime-mover. Moreover, the state has been compelled (according to its leaders' beliefs) to organize and control society and business in order to contend with the world's disorders.

Accordingly, our viewpoints have been warped and our outlooks thrown out of focus.

Inasmuch as it now seems probable that the state will relinquish a good share of its prerogatives—will encourage greater individual action and opportunity—it is timely to recognize that wholly unsuspected developments lie ahead.

Because of the secrecy that has surrounded much of the technological progress of the past decade (demanded for security reasons) few of us have actual knowledge of what developments have been discovered and perfected in laboratories and pilot plants throughout industry.

We do know, of course, that extraordinary strides have been made in the field of electronics. Millions of families are enjoying the fruits of this in their television sets. However, it is safe to say that we have witnessed only a small part of what is to come, electronically, when freedom to pursue discoveries is once more assured.

Perhaps if we look back at other war periods we shall get some idea of what was accomplished under the driving force of war necessities.

We look upon "mass production" today as a common American accomplishment. No one thinks much about it, because it is adopted in almost every manufacturing plant of consequence.

Yet, mass production was actually bred by war needs. True, we would have had mass production in any event, but the requirements in 1915 and 1916 (when we were selling our future allies all manner of war materiel) and in 1917 and 1918, for our own fighting forces, stimulated mass production in a way which might otherwise have taken many more years to develop. It is doubtless a fact that Henry Ford was the first to apply the principle of the "moving production line" (quickly to be adopted by Durant with his Chevrolet) but it wasn't until war orders swamped our manufacturing plants that this principle was installed generally. Previously, when a product was being assembled it remained stationary while its parts were added; under the moving-line idea, the product moved along and parts were added as it moved.

So I think you can credit World War 1 with having pushed mass production forward a matter of many years. And in addition, of course, there were countless technical developments that arose from the war demands.

It may be interesting to go 'way back a moment and recall that Eli Whitney, who is best known for his invention of the cotton gin in 1793, was also the initiator of the first principle of mass production; namely interchangeability of parts. It was shortly before the War of 1812 when Whitney put on his demonstration, using parts of army muskets. He spilled out hundreds of locks, springs, barrels, triggers, and so on, and then proceeded to show that he could pick up any of the pieces and they would fit perfectly in the final assembly. Therefore, muskets had been made by hand and if a hammerlock were lost, for example, a new one would have to be made especially to fit. Thus the requirements of war stimulated the inventive genius of Eli Whitney, whose inter-changeability-of-parts idea naturally vastly advanced the early growth of shops and foreshadowed the end of handicrafts.

If, to come back to the present, we can solve the political problems and get back to American opportunism we shall stand in awe again at what has been developed while our backs have been turned.

The contest is open to students in the elementary and high school grades in public, parochial and private schools throughout the country. Last year, 4,642 designs were received from students in the 48 states, Canada, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Rieger pointed out that students attending school in New York state are required to submit designs based on either of two safety themes, Look Both Ways Before Crossing and Play Away from Traffic.

The 10 first-prize designs in the high school competition will be reproduced and distributed free by the AAA to more than 150,000 schools throughout the country during the school year beginning next September.

A special award of $75 will be made this year to the student submittting the best poster illustrating the School's Open safety theme. The winning poster will be displayed widely in the AAA's annual School's Open traffic-safety campaign in the fall.

Application blanks are available through school principals and art instructors, Rieger said. Information and rules of the contest may be obtained from the Automobile Club of New York, 28 East 78th street, New York 21, N. Y.

The contest has the approval of the contest committee of the National Association of Secondary School Principals of the National Educational Association and public and parochial school officials in New York.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator doesn't suppose that many of us will ever "look ahead" with much accuracy. But, although perhaps this discussion is somewhat previous, there is one major consideration we should hold in the back of our minds.

As you run back through our industrial history you find that wars have been great innovators and motivators of industrial progress.

We have lost sight of this fact in recent years because the aftermath of World War 2 has been one of continued world strain, area conflicts, and political disturbances.

There has been little "freedom" of action or minds in the years since Germany and Japan capitulated. The "government" has been in the forefront of world-wide disorders, with the result that the state rather than its individuals has been the prime-mover. Moreover, the state has been compelled (according to its leaders' beliefs) to organize and control society and business in order to contend with the world's disorders.

Accordingly, our viewpoints have been warped and our outlooks thrown out of focus.

Inasmuch as it now seems probable that the state will relinquish a good share of its prerogatives—will encourage greater individual action and opportunity—it is timely to recognize that wholly unsuspected developments lie ahead.

Because of the secrecy that has surrounded much of the technological progress of the past decade (demanded for security reasons) few of us have actual knowledge of what developments have been discovered and perfected in laboratories and pilot plants throughout industry.

We do know, of course, that extraordinary strides have been made in the field of electronics. Millions of families are enjoying the fruits of this in their television sets. However, it is safe to say that we have witnessed only a small part of what is to come, electronically, when freedom to pursue discoveries is once more assured.

Perhaps if we look back at other war periods we shall get some idea of what was accomplished under the driving force of war necessities.

We look upon "mass production" today as a common American accomplishment. No one thinks much about it, because it is adopted in almost every manufacturing plant of consequence.

Yet, mass production was actually bred by war needs. True, we would have had mass production in any event, but the requirements in 1915 and 1916 (when we were selling our future allies all manner of war materiel) and in 1917 and 1918, for our own fighting forces, stimulated mass production in a way which might otherwise have taken many more years to develop. It is doubtless a fact that Henry Ford was the first to apply the principle of the "moving production line" (quickly to be adopted by Durant with his Chevrolet) but it wasn't until war orders swamped our manufacturing plants that this principle was installed generally. Previously, when a product was being assembled it remained stationary while its parts were added; under the moving-line idea, the product moved along and parts were added as it moved.

So I think you can credit World War 1 with having pushed mass production forward a matter of many years. And in addition, of course, there were countless technical developments that arose from the war demands.

It may be interesting to go 'way back a moment and recall that Eli Whitney, who is best known for his invention of the cotton gin in 1793, was also the initiator of the first principle of mass production; namely interchangeability of parts. It was shortly before the War of 1812 when Whitney put on his demonstration, using parts of army muskets. He spilled out hundreds of locks, springs, barrels, triggers, and so on, and then proceeded to show that he could pick up any of the pieces and they would fit perfectly in the final assembly. Therefore, muskets had been made by hand and if a hammerlock were lost, for example, a new one would have to be made especially to fit. Thus the requirements of war stimulated the inventive genius of Eli Whitney, whose inter-changeability-of-parts idea naturally vastly advanced the early growth of shops and foreshadowed the end of handicrafts.

If, to come back to the present, we can solve the political problems and get back to American opportunism we shall stand in awe again at what has been developed while our backs have been turned.

COMPULSORY CAR INSURANCE

Governor Dewey in a special message to the Legislature urges the enactment of a bill requiring every motor vehicle owner to have liability insurance. There is mounting opposition to the law.

The bill would require all vehicles registered in the state to be covered by $10,000 insurance for injuries to one person; $20,000 for injuries to two or more persons and $5,000 for property damage.

The Governor said he doesn't believe that there is an inalienable right to drive a car or a constitutional freedom to kill or maim without responsibility for the consequences.

Under the present financial-responsibility law almost anyone is allowed to have one accident before the law steps in and requires the motorist to prove that he is financially responsible. It doesn't make sense to allow about 10 per cent of the motor vehicle owners one crack at innocent victims, which may prove fatal, before they must become financially responsible.

Why not compel all motor vehicle owners to have insurance? It might prove a big help in highway safety.

SOLDIERS ABROAD

The first American troops in Europe after our entrance into World War II were treated as heroes and were given the hospitality and good will of most residents. In the countries where our men fought they were greeted as liberators and many veterans have pleasant memories of their association with European civilians. But when the fighting ended conditions changed and relationships between our troops and civilians in many countries were strained.

Friction between soldiers and civilians seems inevitable. In many parts of the United States where our fighting men are based the civilians and the troops are often at odds. If this is true in our own country, with our own servicemen, it is understandable that bad feelings of a similar nature can exist abroad.

Many of the places where our troops are stationed are small, unable to entertain and amuse the men based there. Americans have more money and can bid up prices in the area where they are stationed. The behavior of a few unruly soldiers draws down the displeasure of the natives on all Americans. On the other hand a few rude civilians can cause the Americans to distrust and dislike all civilians.

In Paris, recently, a group of American Army, Air Force and Naval officers met to consider ways of meeting the problem. They made recommendations, including language lessons for troops, stricter regulation of military traffic, joint military and civilian committees to work for better understanding. There is no one solution, no quick answer. Harmonious living in any community requires attention and effort.

YUGOSLAVIA IS WELCOME

The news is welcome that the time is drawing closer when Yugoslavia may join Greece and Turkey in a Balkan defense alliance against Russia.

Nobody needs to stress the importance of the Balkan area to the overall defense of the West. A successful Russian invasion here would turn the western flank and make Western Europe difficult if not impossible to protect.

It was recognition of that which finally brought Greece and Turkey into the NATO pact last year. Defense authorities understood their strategic value, and appreciated also that they rank among the stoutest foes of communism.

For many practical reasons, Yugoslavia could not be pulled into NATO. There is strong resistance to that on both sides. Nevertheless, the Yugoslavs, for all their Communist government are seen as a powerful ally. The West wisely extends aid to Tito, and there have been informal strategy talks looking toward a linking of effort in event of a Russian attack.

The plan for a definite pact incorporating Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey is perhaps the strongest move that can be made formally to tie into the NATO system. This regional arrangement would presumably have all the binding force of any military alliance, yet it would get around the embarrassing business of asking Tito to join the family.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

DEPORTEES AND THE IMMIGRATION LAW

Writing on the question of the deportees who enjoy all the privileges of American life, while legally having no right to be in this country, I missed a point or two incorporated in the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, the most important being that if a country refuses to accept deportees who rightly should be returned to that country, the United States is empowered by law to refuse to issue visas or immigration permits to any nationals of that country.

In other words, should Italy refuse to accept Costello or Luchese or any other person whom the Department of Justice seeks to deport, or should Russia refuse to accept Serge Rubinstein, the slacker, the United States consuls in Italy or Russia could shut down their visa departments.

Section 243, (g) of the act reads:

"Upon the notification by the Attorney General that any country upon request denies or unduly delays acceptance of the return of any alien who is a national, citizen, subject, or resident thereof, the Secretary of State shall instruct consular officers performing their duties in the territory of such country to discontinue the issuance of immigrant visas to nationals, citizens, subjects, or residents of such country until such time as the Attorney General shall inform the Secretary of State that such country has accepted such alien."

This provision of the law is mandatory and it is therefore immediately enforceable. In the case of a country such as Italy or Russia, exit permits are necessary if anyone is to be allowed to leave the country. That means that these governments control the migrations of citizens from their countries to others. There is hardly any immigration to the United States from Soviet Russia; the immigration from Italy is usually large, filling the quota. Unless the Italian government wishes these people to leave Italy, they could not obtain exit permits from the Italian government or immigration visas from the United States.

If, therefore, such a person proves to be unsatisfactory to the American government, if such an immigrant turns out to be a dope peddler or any other kind of criminal, we ought to have the right to throw him right out and to send him back to where he came from. There is now ample law to achieve that end. The United States does not need to be a dumping ground for the offal of the world.

Immigration into the United States is not a right; it is a privilege. My father and mother were both immigrants and I know how great a privilege it is to be permitted to come to and live in this country. I am sure that all my kinfolk in Russia and Poland have been tortured and killed as I would have been were I in those countries.

The older immigrants recognized the great privilege of migrating to America and asked for nothing more than an opportunity to make a new life here.

Some of the newer generations of immigrants seem to believe that they not only have the right to equality under the law, but that for some unaccountable reason they are entitled to special privileges, including the privilege of being criminals, of pushing dope, of bribing officials. Those who feel that way do not seek equality but preference.

If the opposition to the McCarran-Walter Act were based on the belief that it is unconstitutional, ineffectual, against American interest, there would be justification for revision. But the argument against this measure is that it is unfair to immigrants who wish to come and stay here. That is ultra vires. No one on this earth is entitled to come to the United States; anyone is free to hope that the American people will welcome him, and that once here, he will so comport himself that the American people will want him to remain, so that his children may enjoy the benefits of American citizenship.

This may be an unpleasant way of saying what is true, but it needs to be said, particularly as many Americans are growing very tired of being told by outsiders what they must do. It is the constitutional right of Americans to oppose a law, and that applies to this law as to any other—but the affairs of the United States must remain the proper business only of Americans. Foreigners ought not to have a choice in our law-making.

MIGRAINE—ONE-SIDED HEADACHE

When we think about migraine—one-sided headache—most of us have in mind an individual active mentally and physically, who must do or have things done "right," who works hard until exhausted, and then suffers for several days with severe one-sided headache, eye disturbances and nausea and vomiting. This picture is correct for the regular or average patient suffering with migraine.

That all cases of migraine do not follow the above picture exactly is stated by Dr. F. V. Vance, Jr., and W. O. Klingman, in Virginia Medical Monthly, Richmond.

"The recurrent type of headache generally referred to as migraine is apt to appear in several members of a family, is frequently preceded by vision disturbances, and is accompanied by nausea and vomiting."

However, it so happens that some cases of migraine depart from classical migraine and are therefore not recognized as migraine. These changes from the regular symptoms can be still linked from time to time with some degree of regularity, brought on in the same manner as "regular" migraine, that is mental, physical and emotional strain.

In investigating these cases, Drs. Vance and Klingman found that these variants or equivalents of migraine are almost as common as the conventional or regular migraine itself.

"The common type of migraine is that in which there is spasm of the bloodvessels or dilation of blood vessels progressing from occiptal lobe (lobe in the prominence at back of head). The spasm and dilation is accompanied by disturbances of vision, flashes of light, or revolving circles. If the spasm and dilation starts in the lobe of brain at side of the head, the first symptoms do not occur in the eye but disturbances of feeling in face, cheek, or in the fingers." After about twenty to forty-five minutes, the regular typical one-sided headache occurs with nausea and vomiting. In some cases there is a passing paralysis, usually of an arm or lower face, or even complete paralysis.

When other areas (not back or side of head) in which the specialized functions or jobs done by the brain are involved, such as consciousness, speech, body movements, taste, hearing, or coordination (working together of various muscles to perform a certain action), a wide variety of confusing symptoms and signs may appear.

We can readily understand how a patient and sometimes the physician may be confused and not recognize that these various symptoms are due to migraine unless he knows that these attacks occur from time to time.

As to treatment, the use of ergotamine tartrate, as suggested some years ago by Dr. Mary O'Sullivan, is still the treatment of choice for migraine or its variants.

The Jack Pot Question

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — There isn't much enthusiasm in Congress over President Eisenhower's request for a review of the McCarran-Walter immigration law of 1953. There are two principal reasons.

The first is that Congress passed this law by overriding President Truman's veto. More than two thirds of both the Senate and House therefore put their stamp of approval on this 120-page revision and codification of all immigration and naturalization statutes.

Sentiment in the new Congress has not changed. If anything, the average Republican is stronger for the McCarran-Walter law than the average Democrat.

The second reason is that in this law Congress provided for a joint Senate-House watchdog committee to keep an eye on how it functioned.

This committee has not yet held its organization meeting. But Rep. Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania, one of the authors of the law and a member of the committee, says that in its normal routine it would have reviewed the law. President Eisenhower's urging that the Congress revise it is therefore taken as an intrusion of the semisacred congressional rights and privileges.

This attitude is typical of almost every reaction to the McCarran-Walter law and the question of immigration in general. Few people can talk about it unemotionally. Religious and patriotic prejudices rise to the surface whenever the subject is mentioned. The end result is always a bitter argument, a fight, or both.

Call Each Other Names

Partisans of liberal-versus-restricted immigration policy call each other names. Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston declares the act should be amended "to purge it of several un-Christian and un-American provisions." Representative Walter has declared that "professional Jews are shedding crocodile tears" over the act "for no reason whatever."

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, ex-president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, says the law puts "a red-tape curtain around America." Msgr. John O'Grady of Washington declares in Rome that the act "will drive many Italians to communism."

Senator McCarran declares that President Truman's Commission on Immigration had used "the Big Lie technique" to issue a "leftist and absurd" report. McCarran denies that there is one iota of racial or religious discrimmination in the law, though it is tough on Communists.

Philip B. Pearlman ex-U. S. solicitor general who was chairman of the President's Commission, replies that "the senator cannot make a reasoned defense of an act which embodies so much discrimination and prejudice, so he makes smears against those who disagree with him."

It is now fairly obvious that as long as this bitter enmity exists between supporters and opponents of the McCarran law, no very calm study is going to be made.

The week of Feb. 15-21 is supposed to be "Brotherhood Week." It is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The big idea is to promote religious tolerance.

Just Seven Days A Year?

If something of this spirit could be transfered to any consideration of the immigration law, perhaps an amicable compromise could be reached mutually acceptable to all factions.

Actually, it may be too early to judge the law fairly. It has been in effect less than two months. While there was a great deal of advance confusion in drafting administrative regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, it went into force smoothly.

There was minor excitement in New York when 251 members of a crew of 974 on the French liner Liberte refused to answer questions and were denied shore leave. Two days later, six ships were cleared without incident.

In Los Angeles there was a rush of Japanese aliens filing citizenship applications made possible for the first time under the new law. In Honolulu it was estimated 60,000 aliens previously denied citizenship were made eligible. In Baltimore, Seattle, New Orleans and other ports, the law was put into effect in routine handling.

The opposition pressure is strongest over the national origins quota system. This would limit U. S. immigrants to 155,000 a year.

The greatest opposition to the quota system is that it shuts out most of the refugees of Europe. The question this raises is whether the United States has an obligation to admit the surplus population of other countries and grant them asylum.

In other words, is Brotherhood Week in America to be observed all the time, or just seven days a year?

Timing of Tax Reduction Considered Only Unknown Factor; One Will Be Granted

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 18—There'll be tax reduction within the next 12 months—if there's really a will to reduce taxes. Presumably that will really exists, and the timing of the reduction is the only undetermined factor.

For the truth is nobody really knows what the money picture is or is likely to be in a few months for the simple reason that the Eisenhower administration hasn't been in office long enough to find out.

The key to the situation is to be found in what President Eisenhower said in his first press conference—he wants to see an expenditure program which shows the income and outgo about to be balanced. That's exactly what Senator Taft said the other day after a meeting at the White House between the President and congressional leaders.

But the average citizen will want to know: Is there going to be a tax reduction within the foreseeable future — the next 12 months? The answer is "yes."

The facts of legislative life are important to bear in mind. The President said he wouldn't agree to the repeal of the excess-profits tax this year unless some substitute revenue measure were enacted to make up for lost tax collections. But, unfortunately, it isn't within the province of the executive to agree or disagree on this item. For, as most observers have overlooked, the excess-profits-tax law expires on June 30 of this year and this happens automatically — there is nothing for the President to approve or disapprove. If substitute legislation is to be adopted, it has to go through the committees of both the House and Senate and then has to be passed by a majority of both Houses before the President has any say in the matter.

With a House Ways and Means Committee voting 21 to 4 for a reduction of the personal income tax, it isn't likely that any steps will be taken to retain the excess-profits tax by affirmative legislation unless the President exerts his influence successfully by pressing Congress more than seems possible at the moment.

The truth of the matter is that the President is as eager for tax reduction as anybody in either house. But he just doesn't want to say anything explicit on the subject at this time, because he doesn't know how soon the facts on the balancing of the budget will be available. It really is an unfortunate handicap which a new administration undergoes. It hasn't been in office a month but is being prodded to say when and how the budget can be balanced, and it doesn't even know yet the actual extent of the unobligated but appropriated funds that are available from past years. This is a complicated job of ferreting out detail which takes time to complete.

A good example is the Mutual Security Assistance Fund. The Truman budget calls for 7.6 billion dollars. But the "unobligated" funds amount to more than 4 billions, and the "unexpended" balances from foreign aid of other years is in excess of 5 billions. Here is a chance for savings or at least diminished expenditures on the cash side. There are several other items of the same kind in other departments of the government—running up to a total of more than $100 billions of "unobligated" and "unexpended" balances—which could furnish savings in the coming fiscal year that begins July 1.

The chances are that the administration will focus attention on what is called the "cash" budget—the actual income and outgo rather than the appropriations for the coming year. Once it is apparent that the amount of cash available for the coming fiscal year from tax collections more than equals the rock-bottom expenses, the time will come to estimate what tax reductions can be made.

So far as the excess-profits tax is concerned, it's a headache for the government and a very expensive tax to administer. The same amount of revenue could be made available from other types of taxation with less expense and less burden on the taxpayer. Some form of sales tax which would not be applied to food or necessities of life would be much easier to collect.

But the important thing to bear in mind today is the political aspect of the controversy over tax reductions. Chairman Reed, Republican, of the House Ways and Means Committee did the right thing politically, and so did the Ways and Means Committee, in getting under way with a tax-reduction bill this early because the two reductions in taxes automatically stipulated by existing law—the repeal of the excess-profits tax on June 30 and the reduction of personal income taxes by 11 per cent on January 1 next—are pieces of legislation passed by Congress controlled by the Democratic party and signed by a Democratic president. Certainly the Republicans can't be in the position politically of wiping out the reductions voted by the Democrats and then also passing laws actually retaining these taxes or increasing the levies.

That's why the whole debate adds up to an intense pressure to reduce expenses drastically and get the budget balanced in order that taxes can be further reduced, even if slightly, by the Republican regime. So tax cuts are coming.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

This letter will be collateral with my expose of Drew Pearson as a political conspirator, who has employed at least two Communist "leg-men," one of whom once was caught in the act of going through highly secret State Department documents which had been conveniently left exposed for this purpose by a functionary who stepped out of his office.

I call attention again to the fact that some hundreds of American daily papers of the great American free press have continued to thrust upon their readers the malicious, motivated mendacities of this faker long after his notoriety was established beyond question as a lying blackguard.

I refer to a book called "McCarthy, the Man, the Senator, the Ism," by two members of Pearson's staff. These characters are Jack Anderson and Ronald W. May. Neither of these individuals is referred to in my mention of Pearson's two Communist "legmen." I have no knowledge whether either of them is a Communist.

My intention here is to call into question the good faith of both the New York Times and the Herald Tribune and of John B. Oakes, of the Times editorial board, and Robert K. Carr, who holds the chair of "Joel Parker professor of law and political science at Dartmouth College."

On Oct. 26, shortly before the election you will note, the New York Times published a political blast against McCarthy in the guise of a book review by Oakes. Although the dust jacket of this book plainly states that Anderson is an employe of Drew Pearson and every newspaperman and most other informed Americans know that McCarthy kicked blazes out of Pearson in a public place, Mr. Oakes of the editorial board of the New York Times conceals this relationship from those readers of the Times who read his review.

I wrote Oakes, calling his attention to this culpable omission of a material fact, an offense which, in the case of a lawyer before a court, would call for serious disciplinary action. I put appropriate questions to Oakes. I have received no acknowledgment from either Oakes or Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher, who has the effrontery to lecture journalistic groups on the ethics and functions of modern journalism.

In one of these interesting expressions of the ethics which now dominate the New York Times, Sulzberger said reporting henceforth should concern itself not altogether with presentation of facts but with interpretation as well. I take it from the instance of the Oakes review of the anti-McCarthy book by Drew Pearson's paid snoop that suppression of facts which are inconvenient to the political ism of the New York Times also is to be an acknowledged peculiarity of this new journalism.

Carr, of Dartmouth, was the executive secretary and manipulator of Harry Truman's so-called Commission on Civil Rights and is the same individual who engaged Nancy Wechsler, an acknowledged member of the Young Communist League, when she was a Columbia student, as counsel of the commission. The Communist book store in New York gave this report a prominent display. Carr has no excuse for not knowing that Anderson was Pearson's employe and that McCarthy had given Pearson a beating. It appears that he deliberately chose to conceal this revealing and influential detail in writing his attack on McCarthy in the guise of a book review.

I am confident also that Oakes, Carr and Sulzberger are thoroughly aware of Pearson's notorious dishonesty, malice and that political motivation which caused him to engage two Communist reporters and to use the columns of several hundred American papers to try to wangle army commissions for Communists without stating that they were Communists.

I have recently discussed Anderson with General Al Wedemeyer and Col. Ivan Yeaton. Anderson turned up in China during the war with "credentials" from a newspaper in Salt Lake. After some routine surveillance, the army decided that he was not filing enough copy to justify further extension of his draft deferment. Anderson was drafted but, like many others of his type, eased into a GI paper. It was called the China Lantern.

General Wedemeyer said that some time after the war, he discovered that the paper's editorial policy was close to incitation to

Governor Dewey in a special message to the Legislature urges the enactment of a bill requiring every motor vehicle owner to have liability insurance. There is mounting opposition to the law.

The bill would require all vehicles registered in the state to be covered by $10,000 insurance for injuries to one person; $20,000 for injuries to two or more persons and $5,000 for property damage.

The Governor said he doesn't believe that there is an inalienable right to drive a car or a constitutional freedom to kill or maim without responsibility for the consequences.

Under the present financial-responsibility law almost anyone is allowed to have one accident before the law steps in and requires the motorist to prove that he is financially responsible. It doesn't make sense to allow about 10 per cent of the motor vehicle owners one crack at innocent victims, which may prove fatal, before they must become financially responsible.

Why not compel all motor vehicle owners to have insurance? It might prove a big help in highway safety.

SOLDIERS ABROAD

The first American troops in Europe after our entrance into World War II were treated as heroes and were given the hospitality and good will of most residents. In the countries where our men fought they were greeted as liberators and many veterans have pleasant memories of their association with European civilians. But when the fighting ended conditions changed and relationships between our troops and civilians in many countries were strained.

Friction between soldiers and civilians seems inevitable. In many parts of the United States where our fighting men are based the civilians and the troops are often at odds. If this is true in our own country, with our own servicemen, it is understandable that bad feelings of a similar nature can exist abroad.

Many of the places where our troops are stationed are small, unable to entertain and amuse the men based there. Americans have more money and can bid up prices in the area where they are stationed. The behavior of a few unruly soldiers draws down the displeasure of the natives on all Americans. On the other hand a few rude civilians can cause the Americans to distrust and dislike all civilians.

In Paris, recently, a group of American Army, Air Force and Naval officers met to consider ways of meeting the problem. They made recommendations, including language lessons for troops, stricter regulation of military traffic, joint military and civilian committees to work for better understanding. There is no one solution, no quick answer. Harmonious living in any community requires attention and effort.

YUGOSLAVIA IS WELCOME

The news is welcome that the time is drawing closer when Yugoslavia may join Greece and Turkey in a Balkan defense alliance against Russia.

Nobody needs to stress the importance of the Balkan area to the overall defense of the West. A successful Russian invasion here would turn the western flank and make Western Europe difficult if not impossible to protect.

It was recognition of that which finally brought Greece and Turkey into the NATO pact last year. Defense authorities understood their strategic value, and appreciated also that they rank among the stoutest foes of communism.

For many practical reasons, Yugoslavia could not be pulled into NATO. There is strong resistance to that on both sides. Nevertheless, the Yugoslavs, for all their Communist government are seen as a powerful ally. The West wisely extends aid to Tito, and there have been informal strategy talks looking toward a linking of effort in event of a Russian attack.

The plan for a definite pact incorporating Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey is perhaps the strongest move that can be made formally to tie into the NATO system. This regional arrangement would presumably have all the binding force of any military alliance, yet it would get around the embarrassing business of asking Tito to join the family.

DEPORTEES AND THE IMMIGRATION LAW

Writing on the question of the deportees who enjoy all the privileges of American life, while legally having no right to be in this country, I missed a point or two incorporated in the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, the most important being that if a country refuses to accept deportees who rightly should be returned to that country, the United States is empowered by law to refuse to issue visas or immigration permits to any nationals of that country.

In other words, should Italy refuse to accept Costello or Luchese or any other person whom the Department of Justice seeks to deport, or should Russia refuse to accept Serge Rubinstein, the slacker, the United States consuls in Italy or Russia could shut down their visa departments.

Section 243, (g) of the act reads:

"Upon the notification by the Attorney General that any country upon request denies or unduly delays acceptance of the return of any alien who is a national, citizen, subject, or resident thereof, the Secretary of State shall instruct consular officers performing their duties in the territory of such country to discontinue the issuance of immigrant visas to nationals, citizens, subjects, or residents of such country until such time as the Attorney General shall inform the Secretary of State that such country has accepted such alien."

This provision of the law is mandatory and it is therefore immediately enforceable. In the case of a country such as Italy or Russia, exit permits are necessary if anyone is to be allowed to leave the country. That means that these governments control the migrations of citizens from their countries to others. There is hardly any immigration to the United States from Soviet Russia; the immigration from Italy is usually large, filling the quota. Unless the Italian government wishes these people to leave Italy, they could not obtain exit permits from the Italian government or immigration visas from the United States.

If, therefore, such a person proves to be unsatisfactory to the American government, if such an immigrant turns out to be a dope peddler or any other kind of criminal, we ought to have the right to throw him right out and to send him back to where he came from. There is now ample law to achieve that end. The United States does not need to be a dumping ground for the offal of the world.

Immigration into the United States is not a right; it is a privilege. My father and mother were both immigrants and I know how great a privilege it is to be permitted to come to and live in this country. I am sure that all my kinfolk in Russia and Poland have been tortured and killed as I would have been were I in those countries.

The older immigrants recognized the great privilege of migrating to America and asked for nothing more than an opportunity to make a new life here.

Some of the newer generations of immigrants seem to believe that they not only have the right to equality under the law, but that for some unaccountable reason they are entitled to special privileges, including the privilege of being criminals, of pushing dope, of bribing officials. Those who feel that way do not seek equality but preference.

If the opposition to the McCarran-Walter Act were based on the belief that it is unconstitutional, ineffectual, against American interest, there would be justification for revision. But the argument against this measure is that it is unfair to immigrants who wish to come and stay here. That is ultra vires. No one on this earth is entitled to come to the United States; anyone is free to hope that the American people will welcome him, and that once here, he will so comport himself that the American people will want him to remain, so that his children may enjoy the benefits of American citizenship.

This may be an unpleasant way of saying what is true, but it needs to be said, particularly as many Americans are growing very tired of being told by outsiders what they must do. It is the constitutional right of Americans to oppose a law, and that applies to this law as to any other—but the affairs of the United States must remain the proper business only of Americans. Foreigners ought not to have a choice in our law-making.

The week of Feb. 15-21 is supposed to be "Brotherhood Week." It is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The big idea is to promote religious tolerance.

Just Seven Days A Year?

If something of this spirit could be transfered to any consideration of the immigration law, perhaps an amicable compromise could be reached mutually acceptable to all factions.

Actually, it may be too early to judge the law fairly. It has been in effect less than two months. While there was a great deal of advance confusion in drafting administrative regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, it went into force smoothly.

There was minor excitement in New York when 251 members of a crew of 974 on the French liner Liberte refused to answer questions and were denied shore leave. Two days later, six ships were cleared without incident.

In Los Angeles there was a rush of Japanese aliens filing citizenship applications made possible for the first time under the new law. In Honolulu it was estimated 60,000 aliens previously denied citizenship were made eligible. In Baltimore, Seattle, New Orleans and other ports, the law was put into effect in routine handling.

The opposition pressure is strongest over the national origins quota system. This would limit U. S. immigrants to 155,000 a year.

The greatest opposition to the quota system is that it shuts out most of the refugees of Europe. The question this raises is whether the United States has an obligation to admit the surplus population of other countries and grant them asylum.

In other words, is Brotherhood Week in America to be observed all the time, or just seven days a year?

The Cathedral of Narbonne

The Cathedral of Narbonne, towering to a height of 130 feet, is one of the most magnificent in all France yet it is still unfinished. Its construction began in 1272 during a time of great political unrest and the builder planned on building it for 1000 years. So far, only the choir of the church has been finished but they still have 319 years of the construction term to finish it on the original enormous scale.

Timing of Tax Reduction Considered Only Unknown Factor; One Will Be Granted

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 18—There'll be tax reduction within the next 12 months—if there's really a will to reduce taxes. Presumably that will really exists, and the timing of the reduction is the only undetermined factor.

For the truth is nobody really knows what the money picture is or is likely to be in a few months for the simple reason that the Eisenhower administration hasn't been in office long enough to find out.

The key to the situation is to be found in what President Eisenhower said in his first press conference—he wants to see an expenditure program which shows the income and outgo about to be balanced. That's exactly what Senator Taft said the other day after a meeting at the White House between the President and congressional leaders.

But the average citizen will want to know: Is there going to be a tax reduction within the foreseeable future — the next 12 months? The answer is "yes."

The facts of legislative life are important to bear in mind. The President said he wouldn't agree to the repeal of the excess-profits tax this year unless some substitute revenue measure were enacted to make up for lost tax collections. But, unfortunately, it isn't within the province of the executive to agree or disagree on this item. For, as most observers have overlooked, the excess-profits-tax law expires on June 30 of this year and this happens automatically — there is nothing for the President to approve or disapprove. If substitute legislation is to be adopted, it has to go through the committees of both the House and Senate and then has to be passed by a majority of both Houses before the President has any say in the matter.

With a House Ways and Means Committee voting 21 to 4 for a reduction of the personal income tax, it isn't likely that any steps will be taken to retain the excess-profits tax by affirmative legislation unless the President exerts his influence successfully by pressing Congress more than seems possible at the moment.

The truth of the matter is that the President is as eager for tax reduction as anybody in either house. But he just doesn't want to say anything explicit on the subject at this time, because he doesn't know how soon the facts on the balancing of the budget will be available. It really is an unfortunate handicap which a new administration undergoes. It hasn't been in office a month but is being prodded to say when and how the budget can be balanced, and it doesn't even know yet the actual extent of the unobligated but appropriated funds that are available from past years. This is a complicated job of ferreting out detail which takes time to complete.

A good example is the Mutual Security Assistance Fund. The Truman budget calls for 7.6 billion dollars. But the "unobligated" funds amount to more than 4 billions, and the "unexpended" balances from foreign aid of other years is in excess of 5 billions. Here is a chance for savings or at least diminished expenditures on the cash side. There are several other items of the same kind in other departments of the government—running up to a total of more than $100 billions of "unobligated" and "unexpended" balances—which could furnish savings in the coming fiscal year that begins July 1.

The chances are that the administration will focus attention on what is called the "cash" budget—the actual income and outgo rather than the appropriations for the coming year. Once it is apparent that the amount of cash available for the coming fiscal year from tax collections more than equals the rock-bottom expenses, the time will come to estimate what tax reductions can be made.

So far as the excess-profits tax is concerned, it's a headache for the government and a very expensive tax to administer. The same amount of revenue could be made available from other types of taxation with less expense and less burden on the taxpayer. Some form of sales tax which would not be applied to food or necessities of life would be much easier to collect.

But the important thing to bear in mind today is the political aspect of the controversy over tax reductions. Chairman Reed, Republican, of the House Ways and Means Committee did the right thing politically, and so did the Ways and Means Committee, in getting under way with a tax-reduction bill this early because the two reductions in taxes automatically stipulated by existing law—the repeal of the excess-profits tax on June 30 and the reduction of personal income taxes by 11 per cent on January 1 next—are pieces of legislation passed by Congress controlled by the Democratic party and signed by a Democratic president. Certainly the Republicans can't be in the position politically of wiping out the reductions voted by the Democrats and then also passing laws actually retaining these taxes or increasing the levies.

That's why the whole debate adds up to an intense pressure to reduce expenses drastically and get the budget balanced in order that taxes can be further reduced, even if slightly, by the Republican regime. So tax cuts are coming.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

This letter will be collateral with my expose of Drew Pearson as a political conspirator, who has employed at least two Communist "leg-men," one of whom once was caught in the act of going through highly secret State Department documents which had been conveniently left exposed for this purpose by a functionary who stepped out of his office.

I call attention again to the fact that some hundreds of American daily papers of the great American free press have continued to thrust upon their readers the malicious, motivated mendacities of this faker long after his notoriety was established beyond question as a lying blackguard.

I refer to a book called "McCarthy, the Man, the Senator, the Ism," by two members of Pearson's staff. These characters are Jack Anderson and Ronald W. May. Neither of these individuals is referred to in my mention of Pearson's two Communist "legmen." I have no knowledge whether either of them is a Communist.

My intention here is to call into question the good faith of both the New York Times and the Herald Tribune and of John B. Oakes, of the Times editorial board, and Robert K. Carr, who holds the chair of "Joel Parker professor of law and political science at Dartmouth College."

On Oct. 26, shortly before the election you will note, the New York Times published a political blast against McCarthy in the guise of a book review by Oakes. Although the dust jacket of this book plainly states that Anderson is an employe of Drew Pearson and every newspaperman and most other informed Americans know that McCarthy kicked blazes out of Pearson in a public place, Mr. Oakes of the editorial board of the New York Times conceals this relationship from those readers of the Times who read his review.

I wrote Oakes, calling his attention to this culpable omission of a material fact, an offense which, in the case of a lawyer before a court, would call for serious disciplinary action. I put appropriate questions to Oakes. I have received no acknowledgment from either Oakes or Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher, who has the effrontery to lecture journalistic groups on the ethics and functions of modern journalism.

In one of these interesting expressions of the ethics which now dominate the New York Times, Sulzberger said reporting henceforth should concern itself not altogether with presentation of facts but with interpretation as well. I take it from the instance of the Oakes review of the anti-McCarthy book by Drew Pearson's paid snoop that suppression of facts which are inconvenient to the political ism of the New York Times also is to be an acknowledged peculiarity of this new journalism.

Carr, of Dartmouth, was the executive secretary and manipulator of Harry Truman's so-called Commission on Civil Rights and is the same individual who engaged Nancy Wechsler, an acknowledged member of the Young Communist League, when she was a Columbia student, as counsel of the commission. The Communist book store in New York gave this report a prominent display. Carr has no excuse for not knowing that Anderson was Pearson's employe and that McCarthy had given Pearson a beating. It appears that he deliberately chose to conceal this revealing and influential detail in writing his attack on McCarthy in the guise of a book review.

I am confident also that Oakes, Carr and Sulzberger are thoroughly aware of Pearson's notorious dishonesty, malice and that political motivation which caused him to engage two Communist reporters and to use the columns of several hundred American papers to try to wangle army commissions for Communists without stating that they were Communists.

I have recently discussed Anderson with General Al Wedemeyer and Col. Ivan Yeaton. Anderson turned up in China during the war with "credentials" from a newspaper in Salt Lake. After some routine surveillance, the army decided that he was not filing enough copy to justify further extension of his draft deferment. Anderson was drafted but, like many others of his type, eased into a GI paper. It was called the China Lantern.

General Wedemeyer said that some time after the war, he discovered that the paper's editorial policy was close to incitation to

Animal Pelts

Toronto—Sunshine makes animal fur dull and lifeless, according to the department of lands and forests, which has been doing considerable research into factors affecting the pelts of fur-bearing animals. For instance, a cloudy fall produces better fur at end-of-the-season skinning time. And some ranchers have been able to bring their mink to glossy perfection a month or six weeks earlier by providing shade. Clear weather last fall gave many wild fur-bearing animals a reprieve. Trappers were late in putting out their lines in northern Ontario because the fur they sought was late in reaching its prime.

Many of the most enthusiastic bridge players in the country are organized in the Metropolitan Commercial Bridge League of New York. A large number of business firms belong to this league, and their employes play in regular tournaments against other members of the commercial league.

One of the most enthusiastic members of this league is its president, Dr. Henry W. Steinhaus. Dr. Steinhaus demonstrated his skill as a declarer in his play of the hand shown today, played in a recent commercial league tournament.

Declarer won the opening lead with dummy's king of hearts and drew two rounds of trumps. His next step was to lead a low club from his hand and fineese the nine from dummy. This play would have been enough to bring home the slam if West had started with K-10-x or Q-10-x of clubs.

As it happened, East was able to win this deep club fineese with the ten, thus preventing declarer from making his slam contract by means of the club suit alone. When East returned a low diamond, declarer had to hop up with the ace of diamonds and look around for a different way to make his slam.

Declarer's next step was to lead a heart and finesse dummy's jack. When this finesse succeeded, Dr. Steinhaus took another deep breath, discarded a low club on the ace of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club.

No more deep breaths were necessary when the clubs broke 3-3. It was no easy to return to dummy with a trump and discard the losing diamond on dummy's last club.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

According to what I read in the newspapers, our local schools have changed a great deal, yet folks do not seem to be satisfied with the modern methods. I started off in Port Ewen School, then came to Rondout and graduated from No. 3 before entering the new Kingston High School. I felt that we had strict discipline in those days. To me the biggest treat was the half hour or less drawing period Friday afternoons in the public schools at the time. I recently visited one school and they spent some time looking at movies.

It is really difficult to be able to teach young ones all they have to know for future living. For instance, I took up woodwork in night high school on my own, which came in mighty handy later on. In my day we did not have the pleasure of cutting out ready made pictures from magazines for scrap books on various subjects as I notice some students do today. One girl asked me for bird pictures from magazines. The way I understand, neatness counts in that scrapbook idea. I guess most girls like to cut out and paste. We used to do it with Dennison dolls, had boxes of them. Sadie Jacobson of Hasbrouck avenue used to have the best collection when we were youngsters in No. 3. It certainly would have been fun if we received credit or a mark for cutting out pictures and pasting them on sheets of colored paper, in those days.

With homes changing almost overnight from coal stoves to oil heaters, and entire oil burner systems being put in, an average girl should know some of the mechanics of these complicated mechanisms. At least to read the water gauge, and know how to take the air out of the radiators, and at least be taught to change fuses when the lights blow out. But do we? I don't feel that the school system in my day equipped me with conditions which I would meet in later life. Algebra and geometry and Latin played a large part of my life in high school, and then what happened. I had practically no use for it at all. That is four years of study I could have given to useful home appliances, cooking, house repairs, sewing, every day arithmetic, knowledge of food buying, clothing, etc., and a lot of other subjects and problems which I had to find out how to solve for myself the hard way, and made many errors.

What I did need to make a dollar in my life, was typing, and for that I had to take a course in a private business school and my father had to pay for it. I could not fit it into my regular high school course and besides I saw too many students who finished typing in high school go to the business schools to be proficient enough to get jobs. I spent 10 years taking various courses in night high school, from cooking to woodworking to architectural drawing, which knowledge was useful to me later.

Reading seems to be a source of trouble for the coming generation nowadays. I hear so much about it. In my day, Horatio Alger stories were all the rage. Remember the Luck and Pluck series. They were books without pictures, as a rule, and plot was good so we were forced to read on. Today comic books, full of pictures has changed and simplified reading too much perhaps. I could read Alger books one right after another. The plots interested me so much that I was forced to read fast and to absorb the hero's problems as well as create a dislike for the villain. Book reports in school did very little for me, as usually we'd skim over the chapters of the book and run off a report that "looked" long enough and then hand it in. Most of those books did not interest us, nor did the contents remain with me once the report was handed in.

Aside from extra turbulence in the air, a thunderstorm does not present grave danger to a competently-piloted modern airplane.

Bard College Opens For Spring Semester

Annandale-on-Hudson, Feb. 17—Bard College opened for the 1953 Spring Semester on Monday with the return of its students from their various Winter field period projects.

Believing that good theory and good practice are inseparable, Bard College students have been away from the campus for the six-week period from January 5th through February 13th. Approximately three-quarters of the freshmen, sophomores and juniors have been engaged in work experience projects. The seniors and other lower classmen have been doing special research or field work.

The most popular jobs this year have been with community service agencies, publishers, manufacturers, schools, hospitals, museums and libraries, banking and insurance offices, theatre and radio. Almost 60% of the students, who are responsible for securing their jobs themselves, have received pay.

Clocks Her Companions

Paxton, Ill. (AP)—Save for 100 clocks, Mrs. Joe Papineau lives alone. "Home without them would be like a morgue," she says. Her prize is a bronze and gold marble clock made in France which received a bronze medal in a French contest. Master of the house of clocks is a 100-year-old Seth Thomas which "runs things" from the kitchen. A "wag on the wall" clock is 300 years old. From Germany and Switzerland, two 100-year-old cuckoo clocks break the monotony of the ticking. Recalling the day when girls flirted with their eyes and fans she has a "flapper" clock. At every tick, a fan in the hand of a lady, is passed back and forth over the face. The most unusual is a blind man's clock. By pushing in a knob, it strikes within the hour, thus telling the hour, although not the minutes.

Animal Pelts

Toronto—Sunshine makes animal fur dull and lifeless, according to the department of lands and forests, which has been doing considerable research into factors affecting the pelts of fur-bearing animals. For instance, a cloudy fall produces better fur at end-of-the-season skinning time. And some ranchers have been able to bring their mink to glossy perfection a month or six weeks earlier by providing shade. Clear weather last fall gave many wild fur-bearing animals a reprieve. Trappers were late in putting out their lines in northern Ontario because the fur they sought was late in reaching its prime.

Opening lead—♥ 10

By OSWALD JACOBY

Many of the most enthusiastic bridge players in the country are organized in the Metropolitan Commercial Bridge League of New York. A large number of business firms belong to this league, and their employes play in regular tournaments against other members of the commercial league.

One of the most enthusiastic members of this league is its president, Dr. Henry W. Steinhaus. Dr. Steinhaus demonstrated his skill as a declarer in his play of the hand shown today, played in a recent commercial league tournament.

Declarer won the opening lead with dummy's king of hearts and drew two rounds of trumps. His next step was to lead a low club from his hand and fineese the nine from dummy. This play would have been enough to bring home the slam if West had started with K-10-x or Q-10-x of clubs.

As it happened, East was able to win this deep club fineese with the ten, thus preventing declarer from making his slam contract by means of the club suit alone. When East returned a low diamond, declarer had to hop up with the ace of diamonds and look around for a different way to make his slam.

Declarer's next step was to lead a heart and finesse dummy's jack. When this finesse succeeded, Dr. Steinhaus took another deep breath, discarded a low club on the ace of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club.

No more deep breaths were necessary when the clubs broke 3-3. It was no easy to return to dummy with a trump and discard the losing diamond on dummy's last club.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

According to what I read in the newspapers, our local schools have changed a great deal, yet folks do not seem to be satisfied with the modern methods. I started off in Port Ewen School, then came to Rondout and graduated from No. 3 before entering the new Kingston High School. I felt that we had strict discipline in those days. To me the biggest treat was the half hour or less drawing period Friday afternoons in the public schools at the time. I recently visited one school and they spent some time looking at movies.

It is really difficult to be able to teach young ones all they have to know for future living. For instance, I took up woodwork in night high school on my own, which came in mighty handy later on. In my day we did not have the pleasure of cutting out ready made pictures from magazines for scrap books on various subjects as I notice some students do today. One girl asked me for bird pictures from magazines. The way I understand, neatness counts in that scrapbook idea. I guess most girls like to cut out and paste. We used to do it with Dennison dolls, had boxes of them. Sadie Jacobson of Hasbrouck avenue used to have the best collection when we were youngsters in No. 3. It certainly would have been fun if we received credit or a mark for cutting out pictures and pasting them on sheets of colored paper, in those days.

With homes changing almost overnight from coal stoves to oil heaters, and entire oil burner systems being put in, an average girl should know some of the mechanics of these complicated mechanisms. At least to read the water gauge, and know how to take the air out of the radiators, and at least be taught to change fuses when the lights blow out. But do we? I don't feel that the school system in my day equipped me with conditions which I would meet in later life. Algebra and geometry and Latin played a large part of my life in high school, and then what happened. I had practically no use for it at all. That is four years of study I could have given to useful home appliances, cooking, house repairs, sewing, every day arithmetic, knowledge of food buying, clothing, etc., and a lot of other subjects and problems which I had to find out how to solve for myself the hard way, and made many errors.

What I did need to make a dollar in my life, was typing, and for that I had to take a course in a private business school and my father had to pay for it. I could not fit it into my regular high school course and besides I saw too many students who finished typing in high school go to the business schools to be proficient enough to get jobs. I spent 10 years taking various courses in night high school, from cooking to woodworking to architectural drawing, which knowledge was useful to me later.

Reading seems to be a source of trouble for the coming generation nowadays. I hear so much about it. In my day, Horatio Alger stories were all the rage. Remember the Luck and Pluck series. They were books without pictures, as a rule, and plot was good so we were forced to read on. Today comic books, full of pictures has changed and simplified reading too much perhaps. I could read Alger books one right after another. The plots interested me so much that I was forced to read fast and to absorb the hero's problems as well as create a dislike for the villain. Book reports in school did very little for me, as usually we'd skim over the chapters of the book and run off a report that "looked" long enough and then hand it in. Most of those books did not interest us, nor did the contents remain with me once the report was handed in.

Aside from extra turbulence in the air, a thunderstorm does not present grave danger to a competently-piloted modern airplane.

Bard College Opens For Spring Semester

Annandale-on-Hudson, Feb. 17—Bard College opened for the 1953 Spring Semester on Monday with the return of its students from their various Winter field period projects.

Believing that good theory and good practice are inseparable, Bard College students have been away from the campus for the six-week period from January 5th through February 13th. Approximately three-quarters of the freshmen, sophomores and juniors have been engaged in work experience projects. The seniors and other lower classmen have been doing special research or field work.

The most popular jobs this year have been with community service agencies, publishers, manufacturers, schools, hospitals, museums and libraries, banking and insurance offices, theatre and radio. Almost 60% of the students, who are responsible for securing their jobs themselves, have received pay.

Clocks Her Companions

Paxton, Ill. (AP)—Save for 100 clocks, Mrs. Joe Papineau lives alone. "Home without them would be like a morgue," she says. Her prize is a bronze and gold marble clock made in France which received a bronze medal in a French contest. Master of the house of clocks is a 100-year-old Seth Thomas which "runs things" from the kitchen. A "wag on the wall" clock is 300 years old. From Germany and Switzerland, two 100-year-old cuckoo clocks break the monotony of the ticking. Recalling the day when girls flirted with their eyes and fans she has a "flapper" clock. At every tick, a fan in the hand of a lady, is passed back and forth over the face. The most unusual is a blind man's clock. By pushing in a knob, it strikes within the hour, thus telling the hour, although not the minutes.

"ACCORDING TO HOYLE"

. . . The right way

When something is done "according to Hoyle," it is done exactly right. Hoyle today is a book of card rules for all games. Originally, though, Edmund Hoyle wrote a book on the rules of the game of Whist (the only game the author ever played). In 1897 Robert Foster wrote a complete book of card rules and called it "Foster's Hoyle" to capitalize on the prominence Hoyle had won as an authority.

Middletown Workers Are Hit by Chemical

Middletown, Feb. 18 (AP)—Four employes of a Middletown perfume oils plant were in a hospital here today, three in oxygen tents—reportedly the victims of delayed reaction to a chemical.

Doctors at Horton Hospital said the four men were in fair condition after reporting eye irritation and chest burns last night.

The four are employes of the Polak Frutal Works, a company that makes oils for use in perfumes. They were identified as Herman Sherman, 31; Robert Hardy, 33; Michael Mingola, 26, and Pasquale Guzetti, 40, all of Middletown. It was understood only the four had been working together in one room at the plant.

All but Mingola were placed under oxygen tents at the hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said the men apparently sniffed fumes from an unidentified chemical while at work yesterday, and went home without noticing any immediate ill effects.

One went to a doctor last night and was sent to the hospital where he gave the names of his co-workers. They were found to be suffering in a similar manner.

Men Hear World Needs Catholics In Fighting Reds

Joseph M. Foley, master of the First New York District, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, told members of Kingston Assembly 275 last night at Cuneo's Restaurant that the world had need of Catholic leadership in the fight against communism.

Foley told those attending the testimonial dinner in honor of new members of the local Assembly that mankind was passing through a dangerous time in history, that the issue today was not that of nation against nation but "for Christ or against Christ."

The Communist idea, he said, was to destroy the shepherd and scatter the flock and to take the name of God out of the hearts of children.

Deplores Secularism

He deplored what he described as an effort to stop teachers from mentioning the name of God in their classrooms, pointing out that a poor concession had been gained which only permits the use of the word as it is sung in the second stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

Foley urged new members to uphold the traditions set by the Old Guard and a closer cooperation between clergy and laity. He pointed out specifically that new members should support the traditions of this republic against the threat of communism.

He said the world had seen the inroads the Communists had made in their sweep through China, reminded his audience of the persecution of Bishops Ford and Byrne, both presumed dead, and the Communist persecutions in Poland and Czechoslovakia. If they could make such inroads into such predominantly Catholic nations, he stated, "we should be doubly on our guard in this country."

Lays Stress on Faith

He said Catholics had left an indelible impression on the United States from the earliest discoveries and explorations in this hemisphere and that this nation's greatest presidents had placed this country in the hands of God and that under God the republic had prospered. The cornerstone of the nation, he stated, was laid on the belief that all men under God were created equal.

Foley repeated periodically throughout his address the phrase, "Keep the faith!"

PGK James V. Geary served as toastmaster and introduced the speaker. Honored guests attending were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, the Rev. James A. Dunnigan, chaplain, Past Master Patrick T. Murphy, PGK Joseph F. Sullivan and Faithful Navigator Kenneth Clark.

Nosedived 46 Years Ago

Remembered among mishaps of Kingston's trolley car era is this one of Feb. 19, 1907 when Trolly Car No. 1, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad, jumped the tracks and plunged into a loading slip of the old Newark Lime & Cement Co., as it was en route to Kingston Point at about 5 p. m. Walter Flannery was the conductor and Richard Hauser, the motorman. The passengers were Mrs. John Osterhoudt, of Lindsley avenue; Miss Susie McAndrews, of North street; John J. Mowell, of Gill street; Miss Sadie Schutt, Abruyn street; A. Rossman Haines, of Tannersville, and another unknown person. All but the motorman and Miss Schutt suffered injuries, but none was critically hurt. The photograph came from Aaron Rice, of 90 Cannon street, Poughkeepsie, who said he was born in Kingston in 1894. The note on the card said: "This is when I lived in Kingston. Regards to my friends and relatives."

Financial and Commercial

Trading was highly selective with cross-currents of price decontrol moves and earnings and dividend reports exerting individual pressures either way.

Business was on the quiet side throughout with the pace about the same as yesterday's 1,290,000 shares.

Price decontrol announcements from Washington found an upside response in building materials and some metals while tobacco shares in a few instances backed down when it was announced that cigarettes were not included in today's order.

Higher stocks included New York Central, Union Pacific, Gulf Oil, Republic Steel, Studebaker, Chrysler, Phelps Dodge, and U. S. Gypsum.

Lower were Paramount Theatres, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Air Reduction, and Woolworth.

Packard was active and steady after directors declared a dividend of 20 cents. A year ago 15 cents was paid, but last September no dividend action was taken. Packard opened on 3,400 shares unchanged at 6. That compares with a 1952-53 high-low of 6¾-4⅛.

Lions Get Talk On Foreign Policy

DR. WILLARD N. HOGAN

The United Nations and American Foreign Policy was the topic of a talk by Dr. Williard N. Hogan, professor of political science at New Paltz State Teachers College, at a meeting of the Kingston Lions Club on Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Stressing the need for making the United Nations succeed, Dr. Hogan reviewed world history showing that whenever a single nation embarked upon a program of aggression it has taken a coalition of nations to stop it.

The speaker reported that a recent Gallop poll disclosed 78 per cent of the persons interviewed felt it "very important" that the UN succeed. The percentage held true, he said, regardless of the party, politics of the person.

The only alternatives to the UN, he said were (1) a super-state, or (2) isolationism. The super-state, he said, was not practical because of loyalties and other considerations, and isolationism is no longer possible. He pointed out that the United States must import at least 30 basic materials for its needs, including its defense needs.

A lively question period followed the talk.

Dr. Hogan, in addition to holding his professorship, is director of the Information Center for the United Nations at the New Paltz college. Early in 1952 he spent six months on the staff of Brookings Institution in Washington, D. C., working on a study of the United Nations.

One of 25 Experts

He was one of 25 foreign policy and UN experts who were called to work on the problem of revising the UN Charter, a matter on the agenda for 1955.

Dr. Hogan is co-author of a textbook, The United Nations, published in 1952 by McGraw-Hill. He has taught in the field of political science at Berea College, University of Kentucky, West Virginia University, Marshall College, and the Graduate School, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and has had several years of experience in research and administrative work with the federal government. He has an A.B. degree from Transylvania College, M.A. from University of Kentucky and Ph.D. from University of Chicago. He is a member of the American and International Political Science Associations, the American Society for International Law and the American Association for the United Nations.

Robert M. Peebles was program chairman for the day, and Harry Gold presided. A gift was presented to Dr. Alvin Evans, a director and committee chairman of the club, who has been recalled to active service.

Middletown Workers Are Hit by Chemical

Middletown, Feb. 18 (AP)—Four employes of a Middletown perfume oils plant were in a hospital here today, three in oxygen tents—reportedly the victims of delayed reaction to a chemical.

Doctors at Horton Hospital said the four men were in fair condition after reporting eye irritation and chest burns last night.

The four are employes of the Polak Frutal Works, a company that makes oils for use in perfumes. They were identified as Herman Sherman, 31; Robert Hardy, 33; Michael Mingola, 26, and Pasquale Guzetti, 40, all of Middletown. It was understood only the four had been working together in one room at the plant.

All but Mingola were placed under oxygen tents at the hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said the men apparently sniffed fumes from an unidentified chemical while at work yesterday, and went home without noticing any immediate ill effects.

One went to a doctor last night and was sent to the hospital where he gave the names of his co-workers. They were found to be suffering in a similar manner.

Men Hear World Needs Catholics In Fighting Reds

Joseph M. Foley, master of the First New York District, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, told members of Kingston Assembly 275 last night at Cuneo's Restaurant that the world had need of Catholic leadership in the fight against communism.

Foley told those attending the testimonial dinner in honor of new members of the local Assembly that mankind was passing through a dangerous time in history, that the issue today was not that of nation against nation but "for Christ or against Christ."

The Communist idea, he said, was to destroy the shepherd and scatter the flock and to take the name of God out of the hearts of children.

Deplores Secularism

He deplored what he described as an effort to stop teachers from mentioning the name of God in their classrooms, pointing out that a poor concession had been gained which only permits the use of the word as it is sung in the second stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

Foley urged new members to uphold the traditions set by the Old Guard and a closer cooperation between clergy and laity. He pointed out specifically that new members should support the traditions of this republic against the threat of communism.

He said the world had seen the inroads the Communists had made in their sweep through China, reminded his audience of the persecution of Bishops Ford and Byrne, both presumed dead, and the Communist persecutions in Poland and Czechoslovakia. If they could make such inroads into such predominantly Catholic nations, he stated, "we should be doubly on our guard in this country."

Lays Stress on Faith

He said Catholics had left an indelible impression on the United States from the earliest discoveries and explorations in this hemisphere and that this nation's greatest presidents had placed this country in the hands of God and that under God the republic had prospered. The cornerstone of the nation, he stated, was laid on the belief that all men under God were created equal.

Foley repeated periodically throughout his address the phrase, "Keep the faith!"

PGK James V. Geary served as toastmaster and introduced the speaker. Honored guests attending were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, the Rev. James A. Dunnigan, chaplain, Past Master Patrick T. Murphy, PGK Joseph F. Sullivan and Faithful Navigator Kenneth Clark.

Accused of Murder

Mineola, Feb. 18 (AP)—A young mother has been accused of first degree murder, as has her husband, because she bought him a rifle and bullets with which to slay his father. Mrs. Eileen Starkins, tiny, blonde and 19 years old, took the rifle and bullets to her husband, Charles, 24, in the cellar of his father's home, Detective Andrew O'Connor told District Court Judge Samuel Greason yesterday.

Nosedived 46 Years Ago

Remembered among mishaps of Kingston's trolley car era is this one of Feb. 19, 1907 when Trolly Car No. 1, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad, jumped the tracks and plunged into a loading slip of the old Newark Lime & Cement Co., as it was en route to Kingston Point at about 5 p. m. Walter Flannery was the conductor and Richard Hauser, the motorman. The passengers were Mrs. John Osterhoudt, of Lindsley avenue; Miss Susie McAndrews, of North street; John J. Mowell, of Gill street; Miss Sadie Schutt, Abruyn street; A. Rossman Haines, of Tannersville, and another unknown person. All but the motorman and Miss Schutt suffered injuries, but none was critically hurt. The photograph came from Aaron Rice, of 90 Cannon street, Poughkeepsie, who said he was born in Kingston in 1894. The note on the card said: "This is when I lived in Kingston. Regards to my friends and relatives."

Browns: Extra fancy heavyweights 48½; Mediums 46; pullets 43.

Dressed poultry steady, prices unchanged.

Financial and Commercial

Trading was highly selective with cross-currents of price decontrol moves and earnings and dividend reports exerting individual pressures either way.

Business was on the quiet side throughout with the pace about the same as yesterday's 1,290,000 shares.

Price decontrol announcements from Washington found an upside response in building materials and some metals while tobacco shares in a few instances backed down when it was announced that cigarettes were not included in today's order.

Higher stocks included New York Central, Union Pacific, Gulf Oil, Republic Steel, Studebaker, Chrysler, Phelps Dodge, and U. S. Gypsum.

Lower were Paramount Theatres, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Air Reduction, and Woolworth.

Packard was active and steady after directors declared a dividend of 20 cents. A year ago 15 cents was paid, but last September no dividend action was taken. Packard opened on 3,400 shares unchanged at 6. That compares with a 1952-53 high-low of 6¾-4⅛.

Lions Get Talk On Foreign Policy

DR. WILLARD N. HOGAN

The United Nations and American Foreign Policy was the topic of a talk by Dr. Willard N. Hogan, professor of political science at New Paltz State Teachers College, at a meeting of the Kingston Lions Club on Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Stressing the need for making the United Nations succeed, Dr. Hogan reviewed world history showing that whenever a single nation embarked upon a program of aggression it has taken a coalition of nations to stop it.

The speaker reported that a recent Gallop poll disclosed 78 per cent of the persons interviewed felt it "very important" that the UN succeed. The percentage held true, he said, regardless of the party politics of the person.

The only alternatives to the UN he said were (1) a super-state, or (2) isolationism. The super-state, he said, was not practical because of loyalties and other considerations, and isolationism is no longer possible. He pointed out that the United States must import at least 30 basic materials for its needs, including its defense needs.

A lively question period followed the talk.

Dr. Hogan, in addition to holding his professorship, is director of the Information Center for the United Nations at the New Paltz college. Early in 1952 he spent six months on the staff of Brookings Institution in Washington, D. C., working on a study of the United Nations.

One of 25 Experts

He was one of 25 foreign policy and UN experts who were called to work on the problem of revising the UN Charter, a matter on the agenda for 1955.

Dr. Hogan is co-author of a textbook. The United Nations, published in 1952 by McGraw-Hill. He has taught in the field of political science at Berea College, University of Kentucky, West Virginia University, Marshall College, and the Graduate School, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and has had several years of experience in research and administrative work with the federal government. He has an A.B. degree from Transylvania College, M.A. from University of Kentucky and Ph.D. from University of Chicago. He is a member of the American and International Political Science Associations, the American Society for International Law and the American Association for the United Nations.

Robert M. Peebles was program chairman for the day, and Harry Gold presided. A gift was presented to Dr. Alvin Evans, a director and committee chairman of the club, who has been recalled to active service.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Feb. 17—Howard Richards, a summer resident of the village center motored up from New York Saturday to enjoy an outing and have a look at his property here. He was accompanied by his assistant, Edson Brace, and Louis Kostner. Howard reports his family all well, what with Master Paul having recovered from the flu. The little boy's grandmother, Keziah Richards, is spending a few weeks with another son in New Jersey.

The city skiers didn't wait for the snow to stop Sunday; they started zipping up the Onteora Trail in full force about one o'clock, only to begin coming back in mid-afternoon when the snow turned to rain. It was the usual weather story of the present winter—fine skiing on weekdays with slush or ice on Sundays. Continuation of this pattern brought disappointment to some 1,600 fans at Belleayre two weeks ago. The weather keeps them guessing: they go from state to state, from trail to trail, in an effort to find a slope that suits them.

Elder Arnold Bellows of West Hurley is spending much of his time this winter in Maryland where he conducts services in meeting houses of the Old School Baptist faith. Word comes from Little Westkill, Greene county, of the death of Charles Peckham's 'coon dog at the ripe old age of 18. That's said to be equal to a century of life for a human being. Little Herman Swarthout of the Boiceville sector fell on ice Saturday and broke his collarbone.

Puzzle Fishermen

Paris, Tex. (AP)—A couple of oddities—pure white catfish—are causing area fishermen to shake their heads in amazement these days. The two freaks turned up in a minnow dealer's nets in Lamar county. Aaron Chennault, who has been selling minnows 47 years, caught the two albino catfish. One is about 7 inches long, the other about 5. Both albinos have heads too small for mud cats, too large for blue cats and a square tail isn't characteristic of a channel cat. Actually, the skin of the fish is transparent with the inside of the catfish showing pink. The fish are bringing a steady stream of visitors to the Chennault place of business where he keeps them in a minnow vat.

"HEY! YOU CAN'T MAKE CALLS ON PART OF A PHONE!"

The picture above is one way to indicate how inflation has cut into the job of providing you telephone service.

In 1940 it cost us an average of $36.50 to install a home phone—all the wires and equipment needed, from the street in. Today it costs almost half again as much to do the work!

It's a big job to supply service to all who want it. We are pushing ahead with our big expansion and improvement program as fast as possible, but increased costs have made it the most expensive investment we have ever undertaken. These increased costs have shrunk the dollars we have set aside to replace telephone plant that wears out, but we have not allowed them to interfere with our expansion program.

Everyone feels inflation, of course. Your cost of living is up 92% since 1940. Our costs have soared too! Yet, during the same period, the average price of telephone service has increased only 15%. Operating efficiencies and technical improvements have narrowed this gap, but they fall far short of closing it.

We think these facts speak for themselves—especially since telephone service today is better than ever before.

How Telephone Company costs have gone up since 1940

Lead up	170%	Cable up	105%
Poles up	139%	Raw cotton up	275%

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Feb. 17—Howard Richards, a summer resident of the village center motored up from New York Saturday to enjoy an outing and have a look at his property here. He was accompanied by his assistant, Edson Brace, and Louis Kostner. Howard reports his family all well, what with Master Paul having recovered from the flu. The little boy's grandmother, Keziah Richards, is spending a few weeks with another son in New Jersey.

The city skiers didn't wait for the snow to stop Sunday; they started zipping up the Onteora Trail in full force about one o'clock, only to begin coming back in mid-afternoon when the snow turned to rain. It was the usual weather story of the present winter—fine skiing on weekdays with slush or ice on Sundays. Continuation of this pattern brought disappointment to some 1,600 fans at Belleayre two weeks ago. The weather keeps them guessing: they go from state to state, from trail to trail, in an effort to find a slope that suits them.

Elder Arnold Bellows of West Hurley is spending much of his time this winter in Maryland where he conducts services in meeting houses of the Old School Baptist faith. The Elder is scheduled to preach at Halcottsville February 28. Recently he conducted funeral services for Emma McGrady at Rising Sun, Md.

Word comes from Little Westkill, Greene county, of the death of Charles Peckham's 'coon dog at the ripe old age of 18. That's said to be equal to a century of life for a human being. (These good old hound dogs ought to be spared as long as their masters, they being about tops amongst canines for wisdom, affection and tail-wagging loyalty).

Echo of late Waterworks Days: Thursday, Feb. 18, 1915—A son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Stoutenburgh's, Montoma, Saturday . . . George Barley, Samsonville, died Tuesday night (father of Mrs. Fred Haver, present Ashokan postmaster) . . . Little Herman Swarthout of the Boiceville sector fell on ice Saturday and broke his collarbone.

Thelma Osterhoudt of Pine Hill reportedly is employed at the big Onteora Central school cafeteria of which Mrs. Lester Barringer of Krumville is in charge.

Puzzle Fishermen

Paris, Tex. (AP)—A couple of oddities—pure white catfish—are causing area fishermen to shake their heads in amazement these days. The two freaks turned up in a minnow dealer's nets in Lamar county. Aaron Chennault, who has been selling minnows 47 years, caught the two albino catfish. One is about 7 inches long, the other about 5. Both albinos have heads too small for mud cats, too large for blue cats and a square tail isn't characteristic of a channel cat. Actually, the skin of the fish is transparent with the inside of the catfish showing pink. The fish are bringing a steady stream of visitors to the Chennault place of business where he keeps them in a minnow vat.

"HEY! YOU CAN'T MAKE CALLS ON PART OF A PHONE!"

In 1940 it cost us an average of $36.50 to install a home phone—all the wires and equipment needed, from the street in. Today it costs almost half again as much to do the work!

It's a big job to supply service to all who want it. We are pushing ahead with our big expansion and improvement program as fast as possible, but increased costs have made it the most expensive investment we have ever undertaken. These increased costs have shrunk the dollars we have set aside to replace telephone plant that wears out, but we have not allowed them to interfere with our expansion program.

Everyone feels inflation, of course. Your cost of living is up 92% since 1940. Our costs have soared too! Yet, during the same period, the average price of telephone service has increased only 15%. Operating efficiencies and technical improvements have narrowed this gap, but they fall far short of closing it.

We think these facts speak for themselves—especially since telephone service today is better than ever before.

Little Hope Held Of Finding Plane

Buffalo, Feb. 18 (AP) — Weary ground and air searchers planned again today to comb and scan Livingston county, but they held little hope of finding a missing dark blue plane that disappeared Friday with four Niagara University men aboard.

The light single-engine Stinson has been the object of a wide search thoughout western and parts of Central New York since Saturday morning.

State police last night asked residents of the Springfield and Hemlock areas in Livingston county to scour their property for a trace of the missing craft or its passengers.

Reports of the plane being seen in that area late Friday prompted the search there yesterday and today.

The missing plane, license number N3755, was piloted by James G. Sweeny, 19-year-old freshman from Elmhurst, Queens. His passengers, all 21-year-old seniors, were Richard N. Hens of Ahmburg, Donald L. Nickel of Rochester and William J. Murphy of Lockport.

Nickel's family visited the Springwater area yesterday to talk to searchers and aid in the hunt. Students from Niagara, St. Bonaventure University and Canisius College in Buffalo also made up search parties.

The missing students had planned to fly to Olean to "bomb" the St. Bonaventure campus with pre-game leaflets urging Niagara to beat St. Bona in basketball Saturday night. Niagara did.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

60th Anniversary Of Mutual Held

Woodstock, Feb. 18 — With special ceremonies marking the 60th anniversary of the Woodstock Mutual Fire Insurance Association, the annual policy holders' meeting was held at the company offices Tuesday. Following the morning session, a dinner was served at the Methodist Church Hall.

The following directors were elected: Mrs. Charles Bailey of Wittenberg, who has been serving as assistant secretary of the association, for a period of three years replacing Victor Van Wagenen, of High Falls; Aaron Hasbrouck, re-elected for another term of three years; Edmund C. Burgher, treasurer of the association of West Shokan, re-elected for another term of three years.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Sherman L. Short, president of the association, welcomed the policy holders and other guests.

Annual reports were read by the secretary. A resolution was passed to extend association's good wishes to two former directors who were unable to attend. George W. Riseley, charter member and Oscar W. Mosher, a former president, who has only missed four meetings during his lifetime.

Covers History

In a resume of the highlights of the 60 years of the association's existence, LaMonte V. Simpkins stated that the first meeting had been held at the Methodist Hall, March 15, 1893. The corporation was organized against loss or damage by fire or lightning, to do business in the town of Woodstock, in School District 22 of the town of Saugerties, and in School District 5 of the Town of Hurley. It was intended that the corporation was to continue for 10 years. There were 25 citizens present at the first meeting, of whom George W. Riseley is the only survivor.

At a meeting of the board of directors, Simpkins continued, on April 15, 1893, Levi N. Harder was elected president; Edgar Snyder, secretary, and Abram D. Rose, treasurer. At that time the president and secretary were authorized to issue policies when applications amounting to $75,000 were received.

Pointing out that Article 10 of the by-laws states that the company shall insure nothing more hazardous than farm property, Simpkins added that it included detached village residences and private barns detached at least 60 feet. The price was 50 cents per hundred. The by-laws also stated that no ashes were to be kept in buildings insured or within 50 feet of said buildings. Policies were not to exceed $2,000, and could not be within 100 feet of each other.

Reads Report

Simpkins read the secretary's report as of December 31, 1893 which listed the number of policies in force as 130, with a valuation of $134,580, with premiums at 50 cents per hundred, ($672.90). There was deposited in the Ulster County Savings Bank a sum of $500 and expenses paid out $149.33.

The first loss, according to Simpkins, occurred on October 29, 1894, under policy No. 77, issued to Harry S. Shultis residing at Lake Hill, to the amount of $500 —dwelling $300, contents $200.

Simpkins recalled that the only living charter member, George W. Riseley was selected to the board of directors in 1908. At the 19th annual meeting, January 9, 1912, Sherman L. Short was elected a director in place of his father Alfred Short who was a charter member and director.

The minutes of January, 1914, Simpkins reported, showed that the fire losses for the year 1913 amounted to $5, and in the year 1915, $7.70. The first mention of taxes and examinations by the Insurance Department is in the minutes of January 9, 1917.

In August 1919, a special meeting of the executive committee was called to fill the vacancy due to the death of Levi N. Harder, president, and Henry P. Van De Bogart was appointed. At the annual meeting January 1920, Oscar W. Mosher was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Harder's death and Mr. Mosher was also elected president. George W. Riseley, Simpkins concluded, resigned as director at the annual meeting January 11, 1921.

Urges Ban on All Prostitution Stories

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—A Manhattan Democrat wants the legislature to ask all newspaper editors to refrain from publishing details of "sensational prostitution cases," such as the current Jelke vice trial in New York city.

Sen. Alfred E. Santangelo introduced a resolution yesterday in which he urged a ban "for the protection of the youth of our country."

"Certain newspapers," the resolution said, "have published or attempted to publish the sordid details of sensational prostitution cases, which publicity is having a harmful effect upon the children and youth of this country."

Santangelo said his move stemmed from extended newspaper accounts of the trial of Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke, 23-year-old heir to an oleo fortune, accused of forcing three young women to become prostitutes and living from the earnings of one of them.

As Pegler Sees It

mutiny but, in his opinion, Pearson's Jack Anderson did not have enough authority to dominate the editorial policy, whatever his sentiments may have been. He definitely does believe that another individual was playing the Communist game of fomenting discontent among American soldiers by emphasizing the news of GI riots in Europe and in the Philippines in line with the Communist policy of disorganizing the American fighting machine and getting the troops out of China and Europe. General Wedemeyer solved his problem by depleting the staff of The Lantern. As individuals left for home he simply left their jobs vacant. Presently there was no staff left and the paper folded.

"The paper definitely was fomenting trouble," the general said.

Colonel Yeaton said he recalled Anderson only as a leg man for the editor of The Lantern but added that his impression of Anderson was not favorable. Yeaton was yanked out of Moscow and sentenced to a whole year of silence at a desk in the Pentagon because he opposed submission to the Kremlin.

Anderson's own blurb on the book jacket gives him a much more romantic career in the war. He says he served as a "war correspondent in China." And later in army intelligence in Shanghai "to report on what the Communists were up to." He also says that when the war ended he was with a band of Nationalist guerrillas "behind the lines," engaged in battle with the Communist guerrillas.

Little Hope Held Of Finding Plane

Buffalo, Feb. 18 (AP) — Weary ground and air searchers planned again today to comb and scan Livingston county, but they held little hope of finding a missing dark blue plane that disappeared Friday with four Niagara University men aboard.

The light single-engine Stinson has been the object of a wide search throughout western and parts of Central New York since Saturday morning.

State police last night asked residents of the Springfield and Hemlock areas in Livingston county to scour their property for a trace of the missing craft or its passengers.

Reports of the plane being seen in that area late Friday prompted the search there yesterday and today.

Similar reports sent air and ground searchers into southeastern Tompkins county and nearby Tioga.

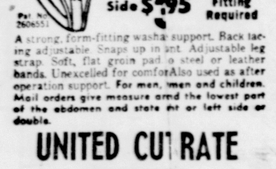

The missing plane, license number N375K, was piloted by James G. Sweeny, 19-year-old freshman from Elmhurst, Queens. His passengers, all 21-year-old seniors, were Richard N. Hens of Ahmburg, Donald L. Nickel of Rochester and William J. Murphy of Lockport.

Nickel's family visited the Springwater area yesterday to talk to searchers and aid in the hunt. Students from Niagara, St. Bonaventure University and Canisius College in Buffalo also made up search parties.

The missing students had planned to fly to Olean to "bomb" the St. Bonaventure campus with pre-game leaflets urging Niagara to beat St. Bona in basketball Saturday night. Niagara did.

60th Anniversary Of Mutual Held

Woodstock, Feb. 18 — With special ceremonies marking the 60th anniversary of the Woodstock Mutual Fire Insurance Association, the annual policy holders' meeting was held at the company offices Tuesday. Following the morning session, a dinner was served at the Methodist Church Hall.

The following directors were elected: Mrs. Charles Bailey of Wittenberg, who has been serving as assistant secretary of the association, for a period of three years replacing Victor Van Wagenen, of High Falls; Aaron Hasbrouck, re-elected for another term of three years; Edmund C. Burgher, treasurer of the association of West Shokan, re-elected for another term of three years.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Sherman L. Short, president of the association, welcomed the policy holders and other guests.

Annual reports were read by the secretary. A resolution was passed to extend association's good wishes to two former directors who were unable to attend. George W. Riseley, charter member and Oscar W. Mosher, a former president, who has only missed four meetings during his lifetime.

Covers History

In a resume of the highlights of the 60 years of the association's existence, LaMonte V. Simpkins stated that the first meeting had been held at the Methodist Hall, March 15, 1893. The corporation was organized against loss or damage by fire or lightning, to do business in the town of Woodstock, in School District 22 of the town of Saugerties, and in School District 5 of the Town of Hurley. It was intended that the corporation was to continue for 10 years. There were 25 citizens present at the first meeting, of whom George W. Riseley is the only survivor.

At a meeting of the board of directors, Simpkins continued, on April 15, 1893, Levi N. Harder was elected president; Edgar Snyder, secretary, and Abram D. Rose, treasurer. At that time the president and secretary were authorized to issue policies when applications amounting to $75,000 were received.

Pointing out that Article 10 of the by-laws states that the company shall insure nothing more hazardous than farm property, Simpkins added that it included detached village residences and private barns detached at least 60 feet. The price was 50 cents per hundred. The by-laws also stated that no ashes were to be kept in buildings insured or within 50 feet of said buildings. Policies were not to exceed $2,000, and could not be within 100 feet of each other.

Reads Report

Simpkins read the secretary's report as of December 31, 1893 which listed the number of policies in force as 130, with a valuation of $134,580, with premiums at 50 cents per hundred, ($672.90). There was deposited in the Ulster County Savings Bank a sum of $500 and expenses paid out $149.33.

Urges Ban on All Prostitution Stories

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—A Manhattan Democrat wants the legislature to ask all newspaper editors to refrain from publishing details of "sensational prostitution cases," such as the current Jelke vice trial in New York city.

Sen. Alfred E. Santangelo introduced a resolution yesterday in which he urged a ban "for the protection of the youth of our country."

"Certain newspapers," the resolution said, "have published or attempted to publish the sordid details of sensational prostitution cases, which publicity is having a harmful effect upon the children and youth of this country."

Santangelo said his move stemmed from extended newspaper accounts of the trial of Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke, 23-year-old heir to an oleo fortune, accused of forcing three young women to become prostitutes and living from the earnings of one of them.

As Pegler Sees It

mutiny but, in his opinion, Pearson's Jack Anderson did not have enough authority to dominate the editorial policy, whatever his sentiments may have been. He definitely does believe that another individual was playing the Communist game of fomenting discontent among American soldiers by emphasizing the news of GI riots in Europe and in the Philippines in line with the Communist policy of disorganizing the American fighting machine and getting the troops out of China and Europe. General Wedemeyer solved his problem by depleting the staff of The Lantern. As individuals left for home he simply left their jobs vacant. Presently there was no staff left and the paper folded.

"The paper definitely was fomenting trouble," the general said.

Colonel Yeaton said he recalled Anderson only as a leg man for the editor of The Lantern but added that his impression of Anderson was not favorable. Yeaton was yanked out of Moscow and sentenced to a whole year of silence at a desk in the Pentagon because he opposed submission to the Kremlin.

Anderson's own blurb on the book jacket gives him a much more romantic career in the war. He says he served as a "war correspondent in China." And later in army intelligence in Shanghai "to report on what the Communists were up to." He also says that when the war ended he was with a band of Nationalist guerrillas "behind the lines," engaged in battle with the Communist guerrillas.

Felician Sisters Pay Tribute to Founder

REV. JOSEPH DABROWSKI

The Felician Sisters throughout the United States and Canada commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of the death of their American founder, the Rev. Joseph Dabrowski, on Sunday and Monday. At the Immaculate Conception Convent and at the Immaculate Conception School, which is under the direction of the Felician Sisters, special programs were arranged.

Father Dabrowski came to this country in 1870, when the new immigration brought steady streams of freedom-loving Poles to America. In Polonia, Wis., he found a great field opened to him. In 1874, with assistance from his native country, he opened a parochial school, when five Felician Sisters arrived from Poland, to share with him the hard work of blazing the trail for Christ.

During the programs at the local school and convent, the trials and accomplishments of Father Dabrowski were outlined. He is also known as the "Father of the Polish Parochial School System in America." In 1886, through his efforts, the St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary was dedicated, and in 1900 a second province of the Felician Sisters were created at Buffalo. Death claimed the saintly Father on February 15, 1903.

Twins Try Ability

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Four-year-old twins who had recently begun swimming lessons tried out their ability on their own and drowned in a man-made lake yesterday. Bill and Leslie Robson sank struggling in 15 feet of water while two adults who could not swim vainly tried to reach them with poles. Their mother, Mrs. Jack Robson, arrived soon after they had gone under and dived several times in an effort to locate them in the cloudy water. Firemen recovered the bodies.

Birth of a Skirt

A story about the Wright Brothers is responsible for another account of the origin of the hobble skirt. Gil Haven, writing in "The Bee Hive" (United Aircraft publication) says that a Mrs. Hart Berg inadvertently became the style leader of her day when she was offered a short airplane ride by Wilbur Wright during his first demonstrations in France. The woman's husband, worried about her modesty, tied a short rope around the hem of her skirt to hold her dress securely in place. In her excitement, after the flight, Mrs. Berg hobbled around for some time with the rope still tied to the hem of her dress. One of the spectators, a leading French dressmaker, rushed back to Paris and whipped up the hobble skirt design, which soon was in vogue the world over.

CAR OWNER USUALLY PAYS

Today's first letter tells me: "The other day, my next door neighbor was driving into town to do some shopping and asked me if I wanted to go along. As my husband uses the car every day and I can't get into town often, I was glad for this opportunity. We couldn't find a place on the street to park the car so my neighbor had to put it in a parking lot. It never entered my head to pay for this, but when I told my husband about it that evening he said I should have paid the parking fee and was wrong not to do so. For future information, I would like to know if I should have offered to pay this expense.

If she had taken you in to town to do some special shopping of your own, then I think your husband was right. But if you merely went into town while she did her shopping (even though you did some, too) I do not think that it was up to you to pay for the parking.

Mourning for Mother-in-law

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother-in-law is in critical condition and is not expected to live. Should anything happen to her, I would like to know if it would be permissible for me to wear a black dress with white bead trimming on it to the wake and also to the funeral. It is the only black dress I own and as I am not too fond of black, dislike going out and buying an all black dress. Your opinion will be appreciated.

Answer: I'm sorry, but you really will have to get one all black costume not alone for the wake but for the funeral. (It will also be best to wear it on at least the first few Sundays in church.)

A Second Introduction

Dear Mrs. Post: When I am introduced to a person for the second time and he does not seem to remember me, is it good form to remark that we already have met?

Answer: It is best to let it go and just smile and say, "How d'you do?" It never is good manners to point out the short memory of another.

How should I introduce my friend to a group of people? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," includes forms of introduction and reply. Mr. and Mrs. George Coddington of Accord celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday, Feb. 7. The Rev. Malcolm Shattuck, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated as the couple renewed wedding vows.

During the ceremony, Miss Theda Sutton sang Because. An open house followed at the church hall, when 125 relatives, friends and neighbors were in attendance.

A buffet dinner was served. Seated with the honored guests, were two of their three children, Harry Coddington, Sr., of Poughkeepsie, and Mrs. Alfred Piester of Spring Valley. Also present were five grandchildren, Harry, Jr., George, and Arlene Coddington; Richard Piester, and Mrs. Donald Gavis with her son, Joseph William II, a great-grandson. The couple's other daughter, Mrs. Robert Sawyer of New Smyrna Beach, Fla., and her three children; and Mrs. Francis Maurer of Desoto, Kan., a granddaughter, and great-granddaughter, Kathi Garri, were unable to be present.

Robert Bradford of Ellenville served as master of ceremonies for the entertainment program, and led in group singing.

Golden bells were used to decorate the hall. Mr. and Mrs. Coddington were presented with many gifts and a purse to be used for the purchase of a television set.

Life-long residents of the area, the Coddingtons are active members of the Methodist Church.

Poughkeepsie Halts Maroons, 81-70; NFA Cops 36 Straight, 68-62

Newburgh Can Clinch DUSO Championship on Friday

Falling apart after taking an early lead over Poughkeepsie High School, Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroon and White cagers went down to their fourth defeat Tuesday night at the auditorium boards by 81 to 70.

Coupled with Newburgh's 36th straight victory (No. 14 this year), Kingston can now look forward to rebuilding for the 1953-54 campaign. After last night's results, there's not much left to the present DUSO League campaign.

Newburgh clinched a mathematical tie for the league championship last night with a 68 to 62 victory over Ellenville. The Academy cagers can nail down the flag for good when they tangle with Liberty in Newburgh Friday night.

Kingston had a look of going places in the opening minutes of last night's game. The Maroons jumped to an early lead of 21 to 16 at the first quarter but they soon fell apart.

Rebounds Make Difference

Poughkepsie, showing excellent form on rebounds, quickly took the advantage of Kingston's errant tosses and moved out to a 42 to 30 lead at the half.

The Kiasmen were held to a low nine points in the second period while the Bridge City quintet hammered home 26 markers to lead the 42-30 edge.

Poughkeepsie added to its margin of victory in the third canto with a scoring spree of 23 points while the Maroons were held to 21. Poughkeepsie led at the buzzer by 65-51.

Showing some signs of coming back to life, Kingston sliced Poughkeepsie's lead to the 11 points in the final quarter by scoring 19 points while the visiting five picked up 16.

Brodhead, DuBois High

Skipper Brodhead and Bill DuBois were the big guns for Kingston in the loss. Brodhead fired in 24 points while DuBois trailed a point behind with 23. George Telepas was third high on the squad with 11.

Don Dahowski and Gary Mendez gave Poughkeepsie a solid one-two punch with 27 and 23 points respectively.

Meanwhile in Ellenville last night, Newburgh had another close call but pulled out its latest Frank Merriwell finishes to keep its streak going.

With 35 seconds to go, Newburgh led by 62-60. A set shot by Early put Newburgh ahead by 64-60 but Kaplan of Ellenville countered with a two-pointer to make it 64-62 for NFA. Mickey Burkowski, Newburgh's "Marvel" of late, did it again with two foul shots while Kimball added two more foul conversions to give Newburgh the close decision, 68-62.

While Newburgh entertains Liberty in the expected clincher contest Friday night, Kingston will travel to Port Jervis.

See Dykes as 3-1 Over Joe Miceli

Miami, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Lanky Bobby Dykes was expected to be a 3 to 1 favorite tonight when he makes his debut as a middleweight against Joe Miceli in a 10-round fight at the Coral Gables Coliseum.

Dykes is seeking his second victory over Miceli, a 24-year-old soldier whom Dykes decisioned in 10 rounds last year in New York city.

Dykes will weigh about 154 for their 10 p. m. (EST) meeting.

The fight will be televised nationwide over CBS.

Wants Clear Win

Dykes said he will try for an impressive victory over Miceli, a New Yorker who is the sixth ranking welterweight according to Ring Magazine ratings. Then, said Dykes, he will ask that he be recognized head of Ernie Durando as a contender for Sugar Ray Robinson's vacated title.

Durando, Paddy Young and Bobo Olson are the three most likely candidates being considered for the middleweight championship, according to Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

"I beat Durando here with ease," said Dykes when informed he had been dropped from the elimination tournament along with seven others.

Giants' Spencer Thrives on Overwork, Develops Something Extra When Tired

By E. C. JAMIESON
NEA Special Correspondent

Columbus, O. — (NEA) — Memo to New York Giant Manager Leo Durocher: If you want Pitcher George Spencer to regain his 1951 form, keep him so tired out that he is almost exhausted.

George Spencer

This peculiar formula was prescribed by Spencer himself in Columbus as he prepared to leave for Spring training with the Giants.

Spencer, a rugged right-hander, was a candidate for the National League's rookie-of-the-year award in '51 when his sparkling relief hurling was a major factor in the Giants' late drive to the pennant.

George says he can't exactly explain why but he knows that when he's tired his fast ball develops into something of a sinker.

The former Ohio State quarterback relates:

"Those big league hitters murder a straight fast ball. That's their favorite. But when I'm fagged out my fast ball just gives up before it reaches the plate and slinks away right in front of them."

He recalled that in '51 he was fatigued from overwork as he appeared in 57 games. Spencer won 10 and lost four.

Sunk 'Em With Sinker

"There was a period late in the season when I worked in every game for 10 or 11 straight days," he backpedals. "I was so tired that I guess I was pitching sometimes on instinct but that sinker was really getting them."

That season was the first full one for Spencer in the majors.

But how about 1952?

"I was too strong last year," George explains. "When I fired that ball it had too much straight power. It wouldn't sink like it did in '51."

Spencer appeared in only 35 games last year, winning three and losing five.

George doesn't blame an ankle sprain he received while chasing fungoes in practice at Chicago's Wrigley Field in mid-season for his poor showing, but he does say:

"If I had only been good and tired I wouldn't even have been frisking around out there in the outfield when I got hurt."

Spencer thinks the Giants can win the flag again in '53.

"We've got the fellows on the ball club to win another pennant," he says. "If Monte Irvin's ankle is okay, if Larry Jansen's back has loosened up and if Sal Maglie is back in form, we'll be tough to whip."

He could have added the Giants would be helped tremendously if a young man by the name of Spencer just stays tired out and pitches the kind of ball he did in the pennant-winning days of '51.

Christenberry Remains Silent As Giardello Gets Decision

New York, Feb. 18 (AP) — Joe Giardello finally discovered yesterday that he won his Dec. 19 Madison Square Garden fight with Billy Graham.

He had held the decision for about three minutes right after the fight. Then he held an "unofficial" decision for about 20 mintues but "lost" when Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, reversed Judge Joe Angello's scorecard.

Supreme Court Justice Bernard Botein gave it back to Giardello when he annulled the commission's action in an 11-page decision. Christenberry had no comment, but it was not believed that he planned any appeal.

So Vague, He Said

In his opinion Justice Botein said the only reason the Commission gave for changing Agnello's card was that "he had failed to follow the standards set forth in the boxing rules." This reason, the justice said, was "so vague as to be meaningless."

The two fighters, training for their third meeting, March 6 at the Garden over the 12-round route, were ready to settle matters in the ring.

"In my mind, I won it all the time. This time I'll show them all. It won't be close."

A shocked Graham heard the decision at his Greenwood Lake, N. Y. training camp.

Graham Determined

"I feel very bad," he said. "I thought I won it. Christenberry did the right thing. How are you going to avoid bad decisions if the Commission can't act? I'll make sure there will be no bad decision next time."

Giardello now holds two disputed split decisions over the New York welterweight, the first Aug. 4 at Brooklyn Eastern Parkway Arena.

The reversal of the reversal brought up some interesting questions for those who wagered on the fight. Graham was a 2 to 1 favorite in the Garden fight and some paid off early on Giardello as a winner. After reading the papers the next day, they squawked that Graham was the official winner and they had won —not lost.

Some bookmakers paid off both ways to avoid trouble. Some paid nobody but gave back the money, some have not been available since.

The Shaughnessy playoffs in the Senior Recreation Department League got underway Tuesday night with St. Joseph's defeating the Violets and Village Rest upending Sicklers Delivery.

Village Rest built up a 17-point lead in the first half and held on to it until midway in the last quarter when Sicklers, led by Herm Sickler, started to find the range. The Sickler five could not get within 10 points of the Villagers who seemed to have it in the clutch.

Herm Sickler was high man of the game with 30 points. Vince Van Bramer with 19 and Jack Beaver with 17 were top men for the Village Rest in scoring and in rebounding. Both did an excellent job off the boards. Between the two of them they had almost complete domination off the boards.

Seeded Men Win In YM Handball

St. Louis, Feb. 18 (AP)—Doubles play begins and singles competition enters the third round today in the 28th national YMCA senior handball tournament.

All four seeded singles players made it safely through second round competition yesterday, paced by Kenny Schneider and Gus Lewis of Chicago and Brooklyn's Vic Hershkowitz.

Schneider, the defending champion and top seeded, had an easy time with a 21-5, 21-9 second round victory over St. Louisan Bill Frederick last night. Lewis, seeded No. 2, was extended to three sets, however, before defeating Larry Kickham of St. Louis.

Hershkowitz, although unseeded because he was not entered in last year's tournament, is the U. S. Handball Association and AAU champion. He defeated Leo Peressin of St. Louis in straight second round sets.

The week-long tournament ends Saturday.

Coach Faces Contract Suit, Star Threatens to Quit Team

Portsmouth, O., Feb. 18 (AP) — Basketball coach Newt Oliver of tiny Rio Grande College today has two headaches: he faces a possible legal suit for breaking a contract with Oakland City College in Indiana and his star player, Clarence (Bevo) Francis, has threatened to quit the team.

Oakland City College Athletic Director Delbert Disler charged yesterday Oliver is running out on a contract to play his school March 4. Oliver replied he won't play Oakland City even if the college sues him.

"They can sue me all they want," he told newsmen after Rio Grande beat Lockbourne Air Force Base, 95-80, here last night. "I'm going to play Wilberforce University in the Cleveland arena on March 4, and that's definite."

Wants Bigger Teams

Francis, who plunked in 47 points last night to run his single-season total to 1,646 in 33 games, in an interview over radio station WPAY, said he would quit the team unless Oliver scheduled bigger-name teams. Rio Grande has opposed small schools this season.

Oliver's answer to that was he was attempting to schedule games with Seattle University and the University of Hawaii next year.

Oliver said he contracted for the Oakland City College game last fall, before Rio Grande achieved national fame behind Francis' national collegiate record-breaking achievements.

Later he contracted to play Wilberforce in the Cleveland arena on the same date. He said he offered to play Oakland later in the season but the offer was refused by Disler. He said he then sent Disler a check for $100 to cover cancellation of the contract. Disler said yesterday he was returning the check to Oliver.

Undefeated This Year

Rio Grande, undefeated this year, had a $75 guarantee to play Oakland City, the same amount Rio Grande assured the team for an appearance at the Ohio school last year.

"We figure it cost us $500 to make the trip to Rio Grande last year—transportation and taking care of 16 boys for three days," Disler said. "All we're asking is an even shake, but Coach Oliver has been completely unreasonable."

Oliver said he believed Oakland City was trying to take advantage of Rio Grande's success.

Will Start Stocking Trout Next Week

Utica, Feb. 18 (AP)—The state will stock New York streams with 2½ million fingerling trout this year, beginning late next week, the state supervisor of fish distribution says.

O. R. Kingsbury said yesterday the stocking would begin in the southern part of the state and would be continued later in other areas. He estimated it would be about half completed before the opening of trout season April 11.

Kingsbury made the announcement at the annual fisheries seminar, which is being attended by 40 foremen and other officials from 22 hatcheries.

Poughkeepsie Halts Maroons, 81-70; NFA Cops 36 Straight, 68-62

Newburgh Can Clinch DUSO Championship on Friday

Falling apart after taking an early lead over Poughkeepsie High School, Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroon and White cagers went down to their fourth defeat Tuesday night at the auditorium boards by 81 to 70.

Coupled with Newburgh's 36th straight victory (No. 14 this year), Kingston can now look forward to rebuilding for the 1953-54 campaign. After last night's results, there's not much left to the present DUSO League campaign.

Newburgh clinched a mathematical tie for the league championship last night with a 68 to 62 victory over Ellenville. The Academy cagers can nail down the flag for good when they tangle with Liberty in Newburgh Friday night.

Kingston had a look of going places in the opening minutes of last night's game. The Maroons jumped to an early lead of 21 to 16 at the first quarter but they soon fell apart.

Rebounds Make Difference

Poughkeepsie, showing excellent form on rebounds, quickly took the advantage of Kingston's errant tosses and moved out to a 42 to 30 lead at the half.

The Kiasmen were held to a low nine points in the second period while the Bridge City quintet hammered home 26 markers to lead the 42-30 edge.

Poughkeepsie added to its margin of victory in the third canto with a scoring spree of 23 points while the Maroons were held to 21. Poughkeepsie led at the buzzer by 65-51.

Showing some signs of coming back to life, Kingston sliced Poughkeepsie's lead to the 11 points in the final quarter by scoring 19 points while the visiting five picked up 16.

Brodhead, DuBois High

Skipper Brodhead and Bill DuBois were the big guns for Kingston in the loss. Brodhead fired in 24 points while DuBois trailed a point behind with 23. George Telepas was third high on the squad with 11.

Don Dahowski and Gary Mendez gave Poughkeepsie a solid one-two punch with 27 and 23 points respectively.

Meanwhile in Ellenville last night, Newburgh had another close call but pulled out its latest Frank Merriwell finishes to keep its streak going.

With 35 seconds to go, Newburgh led by 62-60. A set shot by Early put Newburgh ahead by 64-60 but Kaplan of Ellenville countered with a two-pointer to make it 64-62 for NFA. O'Connor Stands Out as Mat Star

Pat O'Connor who came from New Zealand to rocket to stardom in American wrestling is rated as the grappler next in line for the championship held by Lou Thesz.

He is reputed to be one of the leading money-makers in the ring today.

O'Connor has a date at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Friday night, with Pedro Godoy of South America, a good strong bone crusher, who likes to spring upsets on the stars.

Seeded Men Win In YM Handball

St. Louis, Feb. 18 (AP)—Doubles play begins and singles competition enters the third round today in the 28th national YMCA senior handball tournament.

All four seeded singles players made it safely through second round competition yesterday, paced by Kenny Schneider and Gus Lewis of Chicago and Brooklyn's Vic Hershkowitz.

Schneider, the defending champion and top seeded, had an easy time with a 21-5, 21-9 second round victory over St. Louisan Bill Frederick last night. Lewis, seeded No. 2, was extended to three sets, however, before defeating Larry Kickham of St. Louis.

Hershkowitz, although unseeded because he was not entered in last year's tournament, is the U. S. Handball Association and AAU champion. He defeated Leo Peressin of St. Louis in straight second round sets.

The week-long tournament ends Saturday.

Coach Faces Contract Suit, Star Threatens to Quit Team

Portsmouth, O., Feb. 18 (AP) — Basketball coach Newt Oliver of tiny Rio Grande College today has two headaches: he faces a possible legal suit for breaking a contract with Oakland City College in Indiana and his star player, Clarence (Bevo) Francis, has threatened to quit the team.

Oakland City College Athletic Director Delbert Disler charged yesterday Oliver is running out on a contract to play his school March 4. Oliver replied he won't play Oakland City even if the college sues him.

"They can sue me all they want," he told newsmen after Rio Grande beat Lockbourne Air Force Base, 95-80, here last night. "I'm going to play Wilberforce University in the Cleveland arena on March 4, and that's definite."

Wants Bigger Teams

Francis, who plunked in 47 points last night to run his single-season total to 1,646 in 33 games, in an interview over radio station WPAY, said he would quit the team unless Oliver scheduled bigger-name teams. Rio Grande has opposed small schools this season.

Oliver's answer to that was he was attempting to schedule games with Seattle University and the University of Hawaii next year.

Oliver said he contracted for the Oakland City College game last fall, before Rio Grande achieved national fame behind Francis' national collegiate record-breaking achievements.

Later he contracted to play Wilberforce in the Cleveland arena on the same date. He said he offered to play Oakland later in the season but the offer was refused by Disler. He said he then sent Disler a check for $100 to cover cancellation of the contract. Disler said yesterday he was returning the check to Oliver.

Undefeated This Year

Rio Grande, undefeated this year, had a $75 guarantee to play Oakland City, the same amount Rio Grande assured the team for an appearance at the Ohio school last year.

"We figure it cost us $500 to make the trip to Rio Grande last year—transportation and taking care of 16 boys for three days," Disler said. "All we're asking is an even shake, but Coach Oliver has been completely unreasonable."

Oliver said he believed Oakland City was trying to take advantage of Rio Grande's success.

Will Start Stocking Trout Next Week

Utica, Feb. 18 (AP)—The state will stock New York streams with 2½ million fingerling trout this year, beginning late next week, the state supervisor of fish distribution says.

O. R. Kingsbury said yesterday the stocking would begin in the southern part of the state and would be continued later in other areas. He estimated it would be about half completed before the opening of trout season April 11.

Kingsbury made the announcement at the annual fisheries seminar, which is being attended by 40 foremen and other officials from 22 hatcheries.

Giants' Spencer Thrives on Overwork, Develops Something Extra When Fired

By E. C. JAMIESON
NEA Special Correspondent

Columbus, O. — (NEA) — Memo to New York Giant Manager Leo Durocher: If you want Pitcher George Spencer to regain his 1951 form, keep him so tired out that he is almost exhausted.

George Spencer

This peculiar formula was prescribed by Spencer himself in Columbus as he prepared to leave for Spring training with the Giants.

Spencer, a rugged right-hander, was a candidate for the National League's rookie-of-the-year award in '51 when his sparkling relief hurling was a major factor in the Giants' late drive to the pennant.

George says he can't exactly explain why but he knows that when he's tired his fast ball develops into something of a sinker.

The former Ohio State quarterback relates:

"Those big league hitters murder a straight fast ball. That's their favorite. But when I'm fagged out my fast ball just gives up before it reaches the plate and slinks away right in front of them."

He recalled that in '51 he was fatigued from overwork as he appeared in 57 games. Spencer won 10 and lost four.

Sunk 'Em With Sinker

"There was a period late in the season when I worked in every game for 10 or 11 straight days," he backpedals. "I was so tired that I guess I was pitching sometimes on instinct but that sinker was really getting them."

That season was the first full one for Spencer in the majors.

But how about 1952?

"I was too strong last year," George explains. "When I fired that ball it had too much straight power. It wouldn't sink like it did in '51."

Spencer appeared in only 35 games last year, winning three and losing five.

George doesn't blame an ankle sprain he received while chasing fungoes in practice at Chicago's Wrigley Field in mid-season for his poor showing, but he does say:

"If I had only been good and tired I wouldn't even have been frisking around out there in the outfield when I got hurt."

Spencer thinks the Giants can win the flag again in '53.

"We've got the fellows on the ball club to win another pennant," he says. "If Monte Irvin's ankle is okay, if Larry Jansen's back has loosened up and if Sal Maglie is back in form, we'll be tough to whip."

He could have added the Giants would be helped tremendously if a young man by the name of Spencer just stays tired out and pitches the kind of ball he did in the pennant-winning days of '51.

Christenberry Remains Silent As Giardello Gets Decision

New York, Feb. 18 (AP) — Joe Giardello finally discovered yesterday that he won his Dec. 19 Madison Square Garden fight with Billy Graham.

He had held the decision for about three minutes right after the fight. Then he held an "unofficial" decision for about 20 mintues but "lost" when Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, reversed Judge Joe Angello's scorecard.

Supreme Court Justice Bernard Botein gave it back to Giardello when he annulled the commission's action in an 11-page decision. Christenberry had no comment, but it was not believed that he planned any appeal.

So Vague, He Said

In his opinion Justice Botein said the only reason the Commission gave for changing Agnello's card was that "he had failed to follow the standards set forth in the boxing rules." This reason, the justice said, was "so vague as to be meaningless."

The two fighters, training for their third meeting, March 6 at the Garden over the 12-round route, were ready to settle matters in the ring.

"In my mind, I won it all the time. This time I'll show them all. It won't be close."

A shocked Graham heard the decision at his Greenwood Lake, N. Y. training camp.

Graham Determined

"I feel very bad," he said. "I thought I won it. Christenberry did the right thing. How are you going to avoid bad decisions if the Commission can't act? I'll make sure there will be no bad decision next time."

The reversal of the reversal brought up some interesting questions for those who wagered on the fight. Graham was a 2 to 1 favorite in the Garden fight and some paid off early on Giardello as a winner. After reading the papers the next day, they squawked that Graham was the official winner and they had won —not lost.

Some bookmakers paid off both ways to avoid trouble. Some paid nobody but gave back the money, some have not been available since.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP)—All hunters would be required to wear "License Plates" on their backs, under terms of a bill before the legislature.

Mulloy, Three Top Netmen Cleared

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy, the nation's top-ranking amateur, and three other top flight players have been given a clean bill of health in the expense incident which resulted in the expulsion of a West Virginia club by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The USLTA announced last night in an unprededented action that the Edgewood Country Club in Charlestown, W. Va., had been kicked out of the organization for failing to give a financial report on a summer exhibition.

This is the first such action in the history of the USLTA, which is 72 years old.

Under the ban, the club can't hold a tournament under USLTA sanction and its members are in eligible to compete in USLTA tournaments, including the national championships.

Harold Lebair, chairman of the USLTA Amateur Rules Committee, said the action grew out of an exhibition match staged last Aug. 16.

Players Sign for Expenses

Mulloy and three other players —Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., Andy Stern of New York and Tony Vincent of Miami—were invited to play an exhibition at Charleston.

Later the USLTA asked the Edgewood Club, essentially a golf club, for a routine report on expenses and distribution of money to participants. The club steadfastly refused.

Lebair said the four players had signed statements that they received no more than actual expenses.

"Because of these statements no action is planned against the players," the USLTA official added.

Government Lifts Controls From Variety of Products

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The government today lifted price controls from milk, butter, ice cream and other dairy products. Drugs, cosmetics, coal and most service charges, such as for auto, radio and television repairs, also were freed from controls.

Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill said the items decontrolled in the new list affect about 10 per cent of the articles used in making up the cost of living index. He said the Office of Price Stabilization still retains full control over about 13 per cent of the items and partial control over about 3.5 per cent.

Cigarettes Missing

Missing from the list was cigarettes and other tobacco products on which OPS had planned yesterday to lift controls. The agency decided overnight to substitute milk dairy products and oleomargarine for the tobaccos.

This was the third major action in stripping off price curbs since President Eisenhower called for ending controls in an orderly manner by April 30.

Freehill estimated that more than 50 billion dollars worth of goods and services based on an annual business volume was affected by today's action.

Freehil predicted at a news conference there would be price increases for many of the newly exempt items. He mentioned higher charges for services, some spotted increases on milk and dairy products, and general raises for many types of building materials.

Among major commodities and services decontrolled in the new list, effective at once, are:

Lumber, wood products and related services, including such things as plywood, siding, poles, wallboards and pilings. This industry is estimated as doing six billion dollars of business yearly at the manufacturers level.

Five Billions Yearly

Coal, all other solid fuels and related commodities such as coke, briquets, and coal chemicals such as coal tar, creosote oil and tar bases. Freehill estimated coal and coal products business at around five billion dollars a year.

Drugs and cosmetics, including all medicines, toilet preparations, dentrifices and pharmaceutical products. Freehill estimated the drug industry does three billion dollars of business at retail annually, with the cosmetics industry doing one billion dollars.

All consumer-type services except laundry, dry cleaning and linen and diaper supply services. Services affected by the action include fees for parking lots; automobile, radio, television and appliance repairs; warehousing, docks and terminal fees, rental charges for cars and admission to sports events.

Bootleggers Are Targets of Board

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—A proposed law drafted by the State Liquor Authority would give bootleggers and moonshiners in New York state a new batch of troubles.

The SLA in a report Feb. 1 accused many local police forces of shutting their eyes to numerous liquor-law violations. Yesterday it sponsored measures that would:

1. Charge all law enforcement agencies with enforcement of the state's liquor laws, in order to eliminate what the authority termed "widespread misunderstanding" among various agencies.

2. Make possession of illegal distilling equipment a misdemeanor and a second offense a felony. The SLA said that bootlegging cases now were tried in federal courts and that present state laws specified no penalties.

3. Give the SLA certain rule-making powers regarding the licensing of truckers engaged in liquor transportation.

4. Outlaw "bottle clubs,"—private drinking clubs that flourish after legal closing-time.

5. Bar the holder of a state liquor license from employing any person who has been convicted of possession or operation of a still not registered with the federal government.

Sued for Divorce

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (AP)—Donald O'Connor, dancing comedian, has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Gwendolyn J. O'Connor. She alleged cruelty yesterday in her complaint, asked reasonable allowances for herself and their daughter, Donna, 7, and an equitable division of community property. The O'Connors were married in Tijuana, Mexico, in 1944, when he was 18 and she 17. They separated last Dec. 3.

'53 Budget Is Voted of surface lines is designed to permit the city to turn over its deficit-hit lines to private operators and help the metropolis avoid taking over the bankrupt Third Avenue Transit Corp., sources here said.

Would Be Exempt

Under terms of the measure, any operator leasing the lines would be exempt from all utility, additional franchise, motor fuel or Diesel motorfuel taxes imposed by the state and from any utility impost levied by the city. The bill was introduced by Republican Sen. Seymour Halpern of Queens and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, Democratic minority leader.

The proposal to set up the Transit Authority is one of Impellitteri's original program bills. The authority plan is designed to maintain the present 10-cent fare, and assess business about 63 million dollars a year in new taxes to help finance transit operations.

The three authority members would be appointed by the mayor to staggered six-year terms. They would be authorized to hire a general manager to handle the transit operations.

To Speak Feb. 19

B. J. VAN WICKLER

The Industrial Management Club of Kingston will meet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the YMCA to hear Benjamin J. VanWickler, executive secretary of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, Poughkeepsie. He was formerly associated with the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Western Union Co., and the New York State Fire Insurance Rating Organization. The topic for Thursday's meeting will be Freedom Unlimited. Reservations may be made by contacting B. Overfield at Central Hudson, phone 1400.

Statement Used

This law should be renewed; and, likewise, the partial payments for current operating expenses for these particular school districts should be made, including the deficiency requirement of the current fiscal year."

To fail to provide the money, Fogarty said, not only would injure the school districts but would amount to a repudiation of the President.

Sought in Bill

The school-aid funds were sought in a supplemental $904,672,920 appropriation bill financing miscellaneous government activities for the balance of this fiscal year.

The bill's total is $1,409,046,670 below original budget requests presented by Truman, $1,200,000,000 of the cut being accounted for by complete rejection of estimates for the Defense Department.

Instead of giving the department new money, the committee directed it to take the necessary funds from accounts already available. Some Democrats claim this does not constitute real economy but is a "paper saving."

Calls 'Plight' Tragedy

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 18 (AP)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO, declared today "the plight of our schools has deteriorated from a national scandal to a national tragedy."

"Millions of American children * * * are being robbed of their rightful opportunity for a decent and full education," he said in a speech before the American Association of School Administrators.

If the nation can afford billions for defense, it can afford an adequate school system, he added. Hundreds of thousands of CIO members work in modern, well-lighted, well-ventilated defense plants paid for by taxpayers, he said, adding:

"But the kids of these workers are forced in too many communities to go to schools that are outdated, or overcrowded, or understaffed, or make-shift or obsolete * * * *

"Regardless of what you may hear from Washington, the country isn't bankrupt. It has the financial strength, and it should have the will, to make the necessary investments to produce a decent school system."

He said a recent decision by the House Appropriations Committee to cut out 24 million dollars for Federal aid to schools in defense areas was "false economy."

ered excessive—as one that "shackles new, small and growing corporations (and) tends to favor old and well-established businesses."

The report added it would be "unconscionable" not to grant relief to individual taxpayers at the same time the excess profits levy expires.

House leaders, meanwhile, served notice they do not consider Eisenhower's statements as closing the door to a tax cut this year. Speaker Martin (R.-Mass.) said "a tax reduction is not ruled out if we make the savings that will justify it. In May we can see how our finances are, and commence to see about taxes."

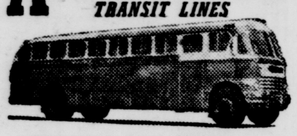

Martin plans to have the House Rules Committee hold up the Reed bill until May. Leaders concede the House eventually will pass the Reed proposal unless Eisenhower takes a stronger direct stand against it. The bill faces tough opposition in the Senate.

Government Lifts Controls From Variety of Products

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The government today lifted price controls from milk, butter, ice cream and other dairy products. Drugs, cosmetics, coal and most service charges, such as for auto, radio and television repairs, also were freed from controls.

Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill said the items decontrolled in the new list affect about 10 per cent of the articles used in making up the cost of living index. He said the Office of Price Stabilization still retains full control over about 13 per cent of the items and partial control over about 3.5 per cent.

Cigarettes Missing

Missing from the list was cigarettes and other tobacco products on which OPS had planned yesterday to lift controls. The agency decided overnight to substitute milk dairy products and oleomargarine for the tobaccos.

This was the third major action in stripping off price curbs since President Eisenhower called for ending controls in an orderly manner by April 30.

Freehil estimated that more than 50 billion dollars worth of goods and services based on an annual business volume was affected by today's action.

Freehil predicted at a news conference there would be price increases for many of the newly exempt items. He mentioned higher charges for services, some spotted increases on milk and dairy products, and general raises for many types of building materials.

Among major commodities and services decontrolled in the new list, effective at once, are:

Lumber, wood products and related services, including such things as plywood, siding, poles, wallboards and pilings. This industry is estimated as doing six billion dollars of business yearly at the manufacturers level.

Five Billions Yearly

Coal, all other solid fuels and related commodities such as coke, briquets, and coal chemicals such as coal tar, creosote oil and tar bases. Freehill estimated coal and coal products business at around five billion dollars a year.

Drugs and cosmetics, including all medicines, toilet preparations, dentrifices and pharmaceutical products. Freehill estimated the drug industry does three billion dollars of business at retail annually, with the cosmetics industry doing one billion dollars.

All consumer-type services except laundry, dry cleaning and linen and diaper supply services. Services affected by the action include fees for parking lots; automobile, radio, television and appliance repairs; warehousing, docks and terminal fees, rental charges for cars and admission to sports events.

Taking part were from left, Richard Kalish and Mrs. Regina Swarthout, members of the board of education; Sherwood Davis, attorney; Stephen Hyatt, principal and moderator; Edwin T. of surface lines is designed to permit the city to turn over its deficit-hit lines to private operators and help the metropolis avoid taking over the bankrupt Third Avenue Transit Corp., sources here said.

Would Be Exempt

Under terms of the measure, any operator leasing the lines would be exempt from all utility, additional franchise, motor fuel or Diesel motorfuel taxes imposed by the state and from any utility impost levied by the city. The bill was introduced by Republican Sen. Seymour Halpern of Queens and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, Democratic minority leader.

The proposal to set up the Transit Authority is one of Impellitteri's original program bills. The authority plan is designed to maintain the present 10-cent fare, and assess business about 63 million dollars a year in new taxes to help finance transit operations.

The three authority members would be appointed by the mayor to staggered six-year terms. They would be authorized to hire a general manager to handle the transit operations.

To fail to provide the money, Fogarty said, not only would injure the school districts but would amount to a repudiation of the President.

Bootleggers Are Targets of Board

Albany, Feb. 18 (AP)—A proposed law drafted by the State Liquor Authority would give bootleggers and moonshiners in New York state a new batch of troubles.

The SLA in a report Feb. 1 accused many local police forces of shutting their eyes to numerous liquor-law violations. Yesterday it sponsored measures that would:

1. Charge all law enforcement agencies with enforcement of the state's liquor laws, in order to eliminate what the authority termed "widespread misunderstanding" among various agencies.

2. Make possession of illegal distilling equipment a misdemeanor and a second offense a felony. The SLA said that bootlegging cases now were tried in federal courts and that present state laws specified no penalties.

3. Give the SLA certain rule-making powers regarding the licensing of truckers engaged in liquor transportation.

4. Outlaw "bottle clubs,"—private drinking clubs that flourish after legal closing-time.

5. Bar the holder of a state liquor license from employing any person who has been convicted of possession or operation of a still not registered with the federal government.

Reverse Government Trend, Urges State Credit Bureau Head

Outlining parallels between the United States today and the Roman Empire of 1,500 years ago, Albert P. Bantham of Schenectady, in a talk here Tuesday night, urged a reversal of trends toward "centralization of authority, creeping inflation, corruption in government and a continuous rise in the cost of government."

Bantham, president of the Associated Credit Bureaus of New York State, Inc., and a past district governor of Rotary, addressed nearly 300 men attending the 28th annual Washington Day Dinner sponsored by the Men's Club of the Old First Dutch Church.

Headlines Significant

"Newspaper headlines today are alive with news that could be of vital significance," Bantham said.

"Our problem, as I see it, is to reverse a trend. This is likely to be a long and difficult process, in which we—all of us here—must play an active part," he contended. He warned against the feeling that just because there has been a change in administration the trend will easily reverse itself. Citing the examples of England and Australia, Bantham said, "If a government changes too much too soon, it will be out of power."

Can't Judge Without Prejudice

Stating that it is impossible to judge present trends without prejudice, he referred his audience to the last days of the Roman Empire. "To study a trend we have to go back far enough in history to examine free from the prejudices of the moment," he said.

The fall of Rome, considered the most important problem in civilization, has been attributed to economic retrogression, religious crises and increasing pressure from barbarians, he said.

Traces Bureaucracy

The speaker traced the growth of bureaucracy in Rome, the debasement of its currency, and attempt in 296 A.D. to fix prices and salaries and subsequent repeal of the edict, a development of class consciousness "setting poor against rich and employer against employe," the growth of taxes, the steady drifting from town meeting form of government to monarchy, the growing corruption in government and the evolution of the welfare state in Rome. In all these cases he pointed out parallels in present day United States.

Bantham showed how the welfare state in Rome grew from the early days, when the needy were helped unofficially by contributions from the wealthy, through various steps until finally, for two and a half centuries, no Roman citizen had to provide food for himself or his dependents—the food was even cooked for him in community kitchens.

Compares Roman Empire

Comparing conditions in the Roman Empire with those in this country today, Bantham warned of the similarity, and at the same time noted that "we are still a long ways" from matching those conditions. He asked his listeners to remember, however, that the Roman breakdown was "such a gradual process" that few were aware of it at the time.

In the demands for wage increases and shorter hours, Bantham said he feared there would build up the same conditions of employer against employe as was built up in Rome; in the matter of corruption he said there is much in high levels and lower echelons but "the vast majority of civil servants are honest," and the welfare state is still a long way off.

But in the matters of bureaucracy in government and confiscatory taxes, "we are far, far down the trail," he said.

"There is no need to follow it to the end, but it will take sincere effort on the part of every one of us to reverse the trend," he said. He urged taking a greater personal interest in government at all levels, a greater interest in organizations, including the church, "insist public expenditures be reduced, encourage free enterprise."

Stop Welfare State

Finally, he said, "Stop the creation of the welfare state. Care for the needy, yes, but let's not destroy the necessity for each one of us to work to earn a living." He ended his talk with a plea that everyone exercise his right to vote.

Bantham, a graduate of Union College, in addition to his Credit Bureau and Rotary Club work, is first vice president of the Schenectady Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Schenectady Industrial Corporation and chairman of the Armed Forces Advisory Council for the area.

He was introduced by Fred Van Deusen, Men's Club president, who conducted the meeting. Others seated at the speaker's table were Richard Talleur, song leader; Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk; the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor; Maynard Mizel, Men's Club vice president; Charles Bell, treasurer; James T. Little, secretary, and Minford Overfield, dinner committee chairman.

Other committee members introduced were John Haulenbeek, Howard R. St. John, Deweese DeWitt, Edward DeWitt and Stuart Randall. Arthur J. Laidlaw, also a member of the committee, was unable to be present. Donald R. Romme provided the dinner music and accompaniment.

Tribute Given

A turkey dinner was served by the members of the Women's Guild, who were accorded a rising vote of thanks. The dinner was held in Bethany Hall of the church.

Spread for Hot Biscuits

Delicious spread for hot biscuits: Cream a quarter cup of butter or margarine, then gradually beat in a half cup of honey.
